Objective

Students will read children's literature during the school year and compile a list of books in an Access database.

Before teaching this lesson on how to set up a database, I would discuss with the kids that we are going to be keeping a database containing all the books that they individually read this school year. At the end of the year, I will teach a second lesson on how to print a report showing the number of books that they read. We will also use this database to track the genre of each book.
