Campbell,2016 Challenging the conventional understandings of literary naturalism defined primarily through its male writers Donna M Campbell examines the ways in which American women writers wrote naturalistic fiction and redefined its principles for their own purposes Bitter Tastes looks at examples from Edith Wharton Kate Chopin Willa Cather Ellen Glasgow and others and positions their work within the naturalistic canon that arose near the turn of the twentieth century Campbell further places

these women writers in a broader context by tracing their relationship to early film which like naturalism claimed the ability to represent elemental social truths through a documentary method Women had a significant presence in early film and constituted 40 percent of scenario writers in many cases they also served as directors and producers Campbell explores the features of naturalism that assumed special prominence in women's writing and early film and how the work of these early naturalists diverged from that of their male counterparts in important ways

The Generative Lexicon James Pustejovsky, 1998-01-23

The first formally elaborated theory of a generative approach to word meaning The Generative Lexicon lays the foundation for an implemented computational treatment of word meaning that connects explicitly to a compositional semantics The Generative Lexicon presents a novel and exciting theory of lexical semantics that addresses the problem of the multiplicity of word meaning that is how we are able to give an infinite number of senses to words with finite means The first formally elaborated theory of a generative approach to word meaning it lays the foundation for an implemented computational treatment of word meaning that connects explicitly to a compositional semantics In contrast to the static view of word meaning where each word is characterized by a predetermined number of word senses that imposes a tremendous bottleneck on the performance capability of any natural language processing system Pustejovsky proposes that the lexicon becomes an active and central component in the linguistic description The essence of his theory is that the lexicon functions generatively first by providing a rich and expressive vocabulary for characterizing lexical information then by developing a framework for manipulating fine grained distinctions in word descriptions and finally by formalizing a set of mechanisms for specialized composition of aspects of such descriptions of words as they occur in context extended and novel senses are generated The subjects covered include semantics of nominals figure ground nominals relational nominals and other event nominals the semantics of causation in particular how causation is lexicalized in language including causative unaccusatives aspectual predicates experiencer predicates and modal causatives how semantic types constrain syntactic expression such as the behavior of type shifting and type coercion operations a formal treatment of event semantics with subevents and a general treatment of the problem of polysemy Language Speech and Communication series New York Magazine ,1976-04-26 New York magazine was born in 1968 after a run as an insert of the New York Herald Tribune and quickly made a place for itself as the trusted resource for readers across the country With award winning writing and photography covering everything from politics and food to theater and fashion the magazine s consistent mission has been to reflect back to its audience the energy and excitement of the city itself while celebrating New York as both a place and an idea Teaching Equity through Children's Literature in Undergraduate Classrooms Gayatri Devi,Philip Smith,Stephanie J.
