My Neighborhood Lesson Plans Second Grade:

Children Today, 1994 Dialogue with the Past Glenn Whitman, 2004-09-15 Oral history is a marvelous force for empowering young people with a love of history But educators today may wonder how they might use it to inspire their students while still teaching the necessary curriculum and meeting standards In Dialogue with the Past Glenn Whitman addresses these concerns from his own rich experience and that of many other teachers and students He helps readers understand the background and methodology of oral history guides them in creating and conducting an oral history project in the classroom and directly addresses the issue of meeting standards Peppered with useful tips examples from students and teachers and reproducible forms along with a comprehensive bibliography this book will be a vital and inspirational tool for anyone working with secondary students Visit the authors web page Activities for a Differentiated Classroom Level K Wendy Conklin, 2011-02-01 Easily implement grade appropriate lessons suitable for Kindergarten classrooms Based on current research these easy to use lessons are based on a variety of strategies to differentiate your instruction Activities are included to allow access to all learners Includes interactive whiteboard compatible Resource CD with sample projects templates and assessment rubrics 160pp plus Teacher Resource CD Teach Janice Koch, 2018-12-04 Teach is a concise introduction to education that challenges readers preconceived notions of teaching in order to transform them into reflective practitioners Empathizing with the difficulties students face as they move from the college classroom to their own classrooms revered author Janice Koch invites readers to both reflect on their own dispositions for teaching and look outside of themselves to the demands of the profession making the philosophy of teaching and learning accessible and relevant The Fourth Edition emphasizes the changing student population and the role of technology and globalization in the field while also including the Interstate Teacher Assessment and Support Consortium InTASC standards correlating with each chapter s content With the guidance of this supportive text readers will gain vital exposure by engaging with professional standards from the very start of their career The Course Reflection Project Nicole Schonemann, Emily Metzgar, Andrew Libby, 2015-05-01 Service learning is entering a post initiatory phase At tertiary institutions of all types and sizes service learning programs are common and service learning requirements for graduation are growing in popularity Taken together alongside continued faculty interest in effective teaching these factors have raised the visibility and popularity of service learning Now the greater need in service learning is not to prove the need for or efficacy of service learning but to turn the focus squarely back on practice Following established best practice is not enough instructors also need to reflect on how this fits within the specific context and application of each unique course and service learning partnership While there are many excellent resources that detail best practice and showcase exemplary service learning courses faculty reflection and course revision often goes unmentioned In response to the lack of attention on the role of reflection and course revision we convened groups of faculty from a variety of disciplines to reflect deeply on their courses paying specific attention to obstacles and challenges These conversations were converted to articles for this edited collection each chapter representing the process of reflection and revision and serving as a guide to develop effective practice in varied curricular contexts This text contributes to the body of literature on service learning in a unique and practical manner Faculty teaching or interested in teaching service learning classes would benefit from this text as well as university administrators and community service directors involved in service learning at a programmatic and institutional level This book should be marketed to faculty teaching disciplinary service learning classes and service learning pedagogy classes and administrative offices involved in service learning This could be a supplementary text for graduate level pedagogy courses Higher education institutional libraries would benefit from this text as well as the national and state campus compact offices
