Reading, Learning, Teaching Howard Zinn Ed Welch, 2009 Howard Zinn is one of the most celebrated historians and social activists of our time Raised in a working class family in Brooklyn he was a shipyard worker and union organizer when World War II began He served as a bombardier in the European Theatre and this experience shaped his opposition to war as an instrument of foreign policy He became active in the civil rights movement as well as the anti war movement from the 1950s to the 1970s He is perhaps best known as the author of A People s History of the United States published in 1980 This study of Zinn s life and work opens the door to many aspects of historical study generally untouched in traditional secondary and collegiate survey courses in United States history To Zinn history is not an objective account of the past to be indelibly carved into the brains of American citizens rather history is an ever changing palette of events as people react to the contexts and cultures they find themselves immersed in By considering the lives and thoughts of less politically and socially prominent individuals students have the opportunity to re examine their own beliefs and assumptions about contemporary American life Students will gain insight into how history is constructed and recorded through a consideration of the life and writings of Howard Zinn

Reading Like a Historian Avishag Reisman, 2011 Enthusiasm about the instructional potential of primary sources dates to the late 19th century and has been echoed recently in the work of literacy experts historians and educational psychologists Yet no extended intervention study has been undertaken to test the effectiveness of primary source instruction in real history classrooms This study with 236 eleventh grade students in five San Francisco high schools represented the first large scale extended curriculum intervention in disciplinary reading in an urban district The Reading Like a Historian RLH curriculum constituted a radical departure from traditional textbook driven instruction by using a new activity structure the Document Based Lesson in which students used background knowledge and disciplinary reading strategies to interrogate and then reconcile historical accounts from multiple texts A quasi experiment control design measured the effects of a six month intervention on four dimensions 1 students historical thinking 2 their ability to transfer historical thinking strategies to contemporary issues 3 their mastery of factual knowledge and 4 their growth in general reading comprehension MANCOVA analysis yielded significant main effects for the treatment condition on all four outcome measures Qualitative analyses of videotaped classroom lessons were conducted to determine the frequency and nature of whole class text based discussion Only nine whole class text based discussions were identified in over 100 videotaped classroom lessons despite the presence of instructional materials explicitly designed to support student discussion of debatable historical questions Analysis of teacher and student participation suggests a relationship between active teacher facilitation that reviews background knowledge and poses direct questions about texts and higher levels of student argumentation This dissertation is structured as three free standing papers each of which addresses one aspect of the larger study In the first paper I discuss the design of the quasi experimental study and report quantitative findings In the second paper I locate teacher facilitation of whole class historical discussion in the literature on classroom discourse and I propose a developmental framework for analyzing student historical argumentation in classroom discussion In the third and final paper I discuss the theoretical underpinnings of the intervention curriculum and offer two examples to illustrate the structure of the Document Based Lesson
