

POETRY

Marianne Moore

I. Essay

Q.1. "Poetry" Is a manual for the readers to analyse their interest in poetry. Explain.

Marianne Moore is one of the most fascinating poets of the twentieth century. Written in a conversational tone, the poem titled, 'Poetry' speaks about how poetry is viewed by various kinds of readers. She favours a genuine physical reaction than an intellectual one in the readers.

The poem begins with the expression, "I too dislike it", i.e., the poet too dislikes poetry. Then the poet tells us why many people dislike poetry. She compares poetry to a fiddle. Poetry might seem worthless as it deals with simple things in life. The language of poetry can be ambiguous. But Moore says that poetry has a genuine space. It is understood by genuine readers.

The language of poetry is intense and honest. Poetry doesn't discriminate. It just helps readers to think about the simplest, unnoticed side of life. This may not sound interesting to intellectuals or literary critics. But it can influence genuine readers who can appreciate these qualities. Poetry helps to perceive things clearly. It also helps people to hold on to life. Poetry enables us to admire the simplicity and variety in life.

Moore also warns the readers against half-poets who are not able to write or appreciate genuine poetry. The poet wishes to find poets who create "imaginary gardens with real toads in them". She says, if you demand the raw material of poetry in all its rawness, then, it shows that you are interested in poetry.

II. Short Answer Questions

1. What are the useful things listed by the speaker?

The useful things listed are genuine things such as hands that can grasp, eyes that can dilate, and hair that can rise. They are important because they are useful.

2. According to the poet, how can one find something genuine in poetry?

One can find something genuine in poetry only when there is in it hands that can grasp, eyes that can dilate, and hair that can rise.

3. Is the speaker impatient with 'half poets'? Why?

The speaker is impatient with 'half poets'. They drag things into prominence unnecessarily. The result is poetry that people dislike.

4. How does the speaker define people who are really interested in poetry?

The speaker says that if you demand the raw material of poetry in all its rawness, and that which is genuine, then you are interested in poetry. Poetry enables us to admire the simplicity and variety in life.

5. "We do not admire what we cannot understand." Can you explain?

Admiration or respect for something comes only when we can understand it properly. We do not admire what we cannot understand.

Conversations with Kentucky Writers Linda Elisabeth

LaPinta,2014-10-17 Kentucky and Kentuckians are full of stories which may be why so many present day writers have Kentucky roots Whether they left and returned like Wendell Berry and Bobbie Ann Mason or adopted Kentucky as home like James Still and Jim Wayne Miller or grew up and left for good like Michael Dorris and Barbara Kingsolver they have one connection Kentucky has influenced their writing and their lives L Elisabeth Beattie explores this influence in twenty intimate interviews Conversations with Kentucky Writers was more than three years in the making as Beattie traveled across the state and beyond to capture oral histories on tape Her exhaustive knowledge of these authors helped her draw out personal revelations about their work their lives and the nature of writing When Still concludes his interview with I believe I ve told you more than anybody he could be speaking for any of Beattie s subjects Aspiring writers will learn that Mason submitted twenty stories to the New Yorker before one was accepted and that Still wrote articles for Sunday school magazines There s plenty of advice Dorris tells budding authors to get real jobs keep journals and read everything even cereal boxes and Marsha Norman reminds playwrights that it is not the business of the theater to provide writers with a living Kingsolver advises Read good stuff and write bad stuff until eventually what you re writing begins to approximate what you re reading Beattie s collection includes striking self portraits of such writers as Sue Grafton Leon Driskell James Baker Hall Fenton Johnson George Ella Lyon Taylor McCafferty Ed McClanahan Sena Naslund Chris Offutt Lee Pennington and Betty Layman Receveur What most distinguishes these moving conversations from other author interviews is their focus on creativity on the teaching of writing and on the authors strong sense of place As Wade Hall writes in his foreword all twenty writers recognize that their works have been significantly influenced by their Kentucky experience This collection offers insights into Kentucky s rich and flowering literary heritage Ballou's Dollar Monthly Magazine ,1891 The Write Quotes: Storytelling,
