How Buildings Learn Stewart Brand,1994 Buildings have often been studied whole in space but never before have they been studied whole in time Architects and architectural historians are interested only in a building s original intentions Most are dismayed by what happens later when a building develops its own life responsive to the life within To get the rest of the story to explore the years between the dazzle of a new building and its eventual corpse Stewart Brand went to facilities managers and real estate professionals to preservationists and building historians to photo archives and to futurists He inquired What makes some buildings come to be loved He found that all buildings are forced to adapt but only some adapt gracefully How Buildings Learn is a masterful new synthesis which proposes that buildings adapt best when constantly refined and reshaped by their occupants and that architects can mature from being artists of space to becoming artists of time A rich resource and point of departure as stimulating for the general reader and home improvement hobbyist as for the building professional the book is sure to generate ideas provoke debate and shake up habitual thinking From the connected farmhouses of New England to I M Pei s Media Lab from satisficing to form follows funding from the evolution of bungalows to the invention of Santa Fe Style from Low Road military surplus buildings to a High Road English classic like Chatsworth this is a far ranging survey of unexplored essential territory More than any other human artifact buildings improve with time if they re allowed How Buildings Learn shows how to work with time rather than against it

Architecture Theology and Ethics Making Architectural Design More Just argues that architecture design and creativity are theological ethical concerns that ought to be considered more deeply by Christians who are committed to social and environmental justice Elise M Edwards discusses the significance of architectural design entering into ongoing conversations in theological ethics and aesthetics She argues that architectural design is not just a professional practice for wealthy clients but rather an activity that everyday people undertake when making choices that shape the spaces they inhabit If Christians think theologically about their agency in these decisions they will discover that architectural design becomes an opportunity to contribute to the flourishing for humanity and God s creation Edwards proposes an approach to architectural design that presents it as prophetic action with the power to shape our world This book then presents five moral commitments that guide design intentions and the process of design towards justice and inclusion Grounded in liberationist feminist and womanist thought Architecture Theology and Ethics makes a compelling case for architecture s relevance to Christian ethics and theology
