King Omatosan Philip Begho, 2010-03-10 Two mischievous chiefs scheme to overthrow a wise and good king In the rib cracking plot are the fifty singing children of one of the chiefs his fifteen quarrelsome wives and his shoulder climbing pet monkey But are these any help against the wisdom of the king Only the sea and tides can tell      The King and the Ju Ju Tree Elphinstone Dayrell, Andrew Lang, 2014-09-05 One of the most important collections of African folklore ever published Mr Dayrell s Folk Stories from Southern Nigeria appeal to the anthropologist within me no less than to the lover of what children and older people call Fairy Tales The stories are full of mentions of strange institutions as well as of rare adventures I may be permitted to offer some running notes and comments on this mass of African curiosities from the crowded lumber room of the native mind The most striking point in the tales is the combination of good humour and good feeling with horrible cruelties and the reign of terror of the Egbos and lesser societies European influences can scarcely do much harm apart from whisky in Nigeria As to religion we do not learn that the Creator receives any sacrifice in savage and barbaric countries He usually gets none Only Ju Jus whether ghosts or fiends in general are propitiated The Other is too high and too far Andrew Lang
