Second Nature Margaret Gibson,2010-11-01 Learn of the green world what can be thy place wrote Ezra Pound In Second Nature her tenth collection of poems Margaret Gibson takes Pound's stern counsel to heart With stunning clarity these poems move from acute observation to an empathy participation and intimacy that continues Gibson's search to experience the one body of the world in direct encounter and to translate that encounter into words As Emerson tells us the Spirit moves throughout Nature and through us our art is therefore second nature Whether Gibson's poems take us to Greece and to a writing desk no larger than a page of light or whether they explore the woods that surround her house all of the poems arise from the desire to embrace a fierce clear eyed attention and to be open to revelation Her poems re imagine watchfulness seeing beyond surfaces listening to what is innermost Second Nature gives us poems that are a ripening of
