Military Skill Development System 2016:

South Africa's Post-Apartheid Military Lindy Heinecken, 2020-01-01 This timely book examines how the South African National Defence Force has adapted to the country's new security political and social environment since 1994. In South Africa's changed political state, how has civilian control of the military been implemented and what does this mean for defence in a democracy? This book presents an overview of the security environment, how the mission focus of the military has changed and the implications for force procurement, force preparation, force employment and force sustainability. The author addresses other issues such as the effect of integrating former revolutionary soldiers into a professional armed force, the effect of affirmative action on meritocracy, recruitment and retention, military veterans looking at the difficulties they face in reintegrating back into society and finding gainful employment, gender equality and mainstreaming, the rise of military unions and why a confrontational instead of a more corporatist approach to labour relations has emerged, HIV/AIDS and the consequences this holds for the military in terms of its operational effectiveness. In closing, the author highlights key events that have caused the SANDF to become lost in transition and transformation, spelling out some lessons learned. The conclusions she draws are pertinent for the future of defence security and civil-military relations of countries around the world.

The Models of Skill Acquisition and Expertise Development Raman K. Attri, 2019-03-30 The book offers condensed summaries of twenty-three major skill acquisition and expertise development models presented by leading researchers during the last half a century of classic and new research. This book presents new researchers in learning, training, cognitive sciences or education disciplines with a big picture starting point for their literature review journey. The book presents an easy-to-understand taxonomy of twenty-three models, giving new researchers a good bird's-eye view of existing models and theories. They can decide which direction to dig further. The reviews in this book are complemented with over 200 authentic sources which a researcher can read for a detailed and deeper dive and set the direction for further exploration. This book would also act as an essential reference for training, learning professionals and instructional designers to design research-based training curriculum to develop the skills of their staff. Chapter 1 of the book elaborates on how the processes of learning, skill acquisition and expertise development are interwoven. Chapter 2 presents a classification system to categorize various models reviewed in the literature under five groups. Chapter 3 describes twelve models of skill and expertise acquisition which are represented in the form of stages used frequently in learning, training and performance literature. The chapter also briefly discusses each model's implications toward developing the skills and expertise of a less proficient individual to a higher level of proficiency. Chapter 4 reviews practice time or task-based models which are theories or models suggesting that acquisition of knowledge, skills development of expertise and performance improvement is a function of nature of the practice, amount of time spent on the task and task type. Chapter 5 presents the factor-based models suggesting the interplay of several factors that influence the acquisition of knowledge, skills development of expertise and performance improvement Chapter 6 embarks on describing expert modeling based models suggesting modeling an expert through elicitation or guidance for the acquisition of knowledge skills development of expertise and performance improvement Chapter 7 covers some newer movements toward cognition based models which are theories or models focusing on mechanisms of cognitive learning for the acquisition of knowledge skills development of expertise and performance improvement Chapter 8 concludes the book by integrating views from various thought leaders to explain a famous staged skill acquisition model

The Value of TVET in Advancing Human Development and Reducing Inequalities Randa Hilal, 2022-04-25 This book examines the contribution of Vocational Education and Training to advancing human development and reducing inequality It uses the example of Palestine as case study rich in multi layered inequalities some of which are experienced in the region and worldwide while others are specific to adverse conditions The case of Palestine provides fertile ground for understanding inequality and human development and for echoing the developed knowledge through to the understanding of Vocational Education and Training and Human Development globally The book brings original theoretical approaches evidence of the value of Vocational Education and Training and contributes to academic debates as well as provides empirical evidence for practitioners and donor community

Doner, Gregory W. Noble, John Ravenhill, 2021-04-21 East Asia is a powerhouse of automobile production Yet across the region national automobile industries have had strikingly different patterns of development Despite starting from equally low levels of performance and initially similar strategies countries have experienced vastly different results From Thailand's success as an assembly hub for foreign automakers and China's unexpected achievements in building its own car industry to South Korea's impressive development of an integrated industry to the Philippines persistent weakness these divergent paths offer a fascinating window into the determinants of economic growth The Political Economy of Automotive Industrialization in East Asia provides a political explanation for why development strategies and performance have been so uneven within one of the world's most important regions Utilizing interviews and original language research from multiple nations this book explains that factors such as market size and neoclassical economic policies alone cannot explain these patterns of development Richard F Doner Gregory W Noble and

John Ravenhill instead highlight the significance of two sets of factors countries very different capabilities for implementing policies and the political forces that help to explain the emergence of effective institutions Through cross national analyses of China Taiwan South Korea Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines and Thailand the book sets up a clear structure for understanding industrial development and how it enables or constrains the capabilities of domestic firms Brief comparisons with Brazil Mexico and other developing countries confirm the utility of the analytic framework and demonstrate how it is superior both to accounts in mainstream economics and much of political science which fail to give sufficient emphasis to the role of public and public private institutions or provide an explanation of the political bases of those institutions In a world where auto assemblers and suppliers are facing new challenges in an ever evolving industry such as the transition to electric and autonomous vehicles this book offers a crucial perspective on the centrality of institutional capacities and political economy By tracing the divergent trajectories of seven nations The Political Economy of Automotive Industrialization in East Asia offers lessons beyond the automobile industry that illustrate the broader importance of institutions to economic growth
