Architectural Technology Stephen Emmitt, 2013-03-25 it gives me great pleasure to support the first ever publication to specifically address the area of research and in particular its relationship with practice in the discipline of architectural technology not only ground breaking because it is the first book of its kind but also because it provides at long last one of the accepted foundations needed to underpin the emerging academic discipline namely a recognised research base. CIAT in supporting this publication is aware of the need for books such as this to sustain the process of research informed practice as an aid for both students and those practising within the discipline of architectural technology. Norman Wienand MCIAT Vice President Education Chartered Institute of Architectural Technologists. Architectural technology is the realisation of architecture through the application of building science forming the constructive link between the abstract and the physical. Architectural Technology research and practice demonstrates the importance of research in architectural technology and aims to stimulate further research and debate by enlightening informing and challenging readers. Chapter authors address the interplay between research and practice in the field of architectural technology examining the influence of political economic social environmental and technological issues. The focus throughout is on creating sustainable buildings that are constructed economically and function effectively and efficiently within their service life cycle. The book's mix of chapters and case studies bring together a number of different themes and provides invaluable insights into the world of research from the perspective of those working within the architectural technology field practitioners academics and students. The underlying message is that architectural technology is not just a profession it is a way of thinking and a way of acting.
