Virtual, Augmented Reality and Serious Games for Healthcare 1 Minhua Ma, Lakhmi C. Jain, Paul Anderson, 2014-04-25

There is a tremendous interest among researchers for the development of virtual augmented reality and games technologies due to their widespread applications in medicine and healthcare. To date the major applications of these technologies include medical simulation, telemedicine, medical and healthcare training, pain control, visualisation aid for surgery, rehabilitation in cases such as stroke, phobia and trauma therapies. Many recent studies have identified the benefits of using Virtual Reality, Augmented Reality or serious games in a variety of medical applications. This research volume on Virtual Augmented Reality and Serious Games for Healthcare 1 offers an insightful introduction to the theories, development and applications of virtual augmented reality and digital games technologies in medical and clinical settings and healthcare in general. It is divided into six sections: section one presents a selection of applications in medical education and healthcare management; Section two relates to the nursing training, health literacy and healthy behaviour; Section three presents the applications of Virtual Reality in neuropsychology; Section four includes a number of applications in motor rehabilitation; Section five aimed at therapeutic games for various diseases; and the final section presents the applications of Virtual Reality in healing and restoration. This book is directed to the healthcare professionals, scientists, researchers, professors and the students who wish to explore the applications of virtual augmented reality and serious games in healthcare further.

Biosignal Processing and Computational Methods to Enhance Sensory Motor Neuroprosthetics Mitsuhiro Hayashibe, David Guiraud, Jose L. Pons, Dario Farina, 2016-01-22. Though there have been many developments in sensory motor prosthetics, they have not yet reached the level of standard and worldwide use like pacemakers and cochlear implants. One challenging issue in motor prosthetics is the large variety of patient situations which, depending on the type of neurological disorder, To improve neuroprosthetic performance beyond the current limited use of such systems, robust bio-signal processing and model-based control involving actual sensory motor state with biosignal feedback would bring about new modalities and applications and could be a breakthrough toward adaptive neuroprosthetics. Recent advances of Brain Computer Interfaces (BCI) now enable patients to transmit their intention of movement. However, the functionality and controllability of motor prosthetics itself can be further improved to take advantage of BCI interfaces. In this Research Topic, we welcome contribution of original research articles, computational and experimental studies, review articles and methodological advances related to biosignal processing that may enhance the functionality of sensory motor neuroprosthetics. The scope of this topic includes but is not limited to studies aimed at enhancing: 1) computational biosignal processing in EMG (Electromyography), EEG (Electroencephalography) and other modalities of biofeedback information; 2) the computational method in modeling and control of sensory motor neuroprosthetics; 3) the systematic functionality aiming to provide solutions for specific pathological movement disorders; 4) human interfaces such as BCI, but in the case of BCI study, manuscripts should be experimental studies which are applied to sensory motor

neuroprosthetics in patients with motor disabilities
