The Challenge of Epistemology Christina Toren, João de Pina-Cabral, 2011-10-01 Epistemology poses particular problems for anthropologists whose task it is to understand manifold ways of being human Through their work anthropologists often encounter people whose ideas concerning the nature and foundations of knowledge are at odds with their own Going right to the heart of anthropological theory and method this volume discusses issues that have vexed practicing anthropologists for a long time The authors are by no means in agreement with one another as to where the answers might lie Some are primarily concerned with the clarity and theoretical utility of analytical categories across disciplines others are more inclined to push ethnographic analysis to its limits in an effort to demonstrate what kind of sense it can make All are aware of the much wanted differences that good ethnography can make in explaining the human sciences and philosophy The contributors show a continued commitment to ethnography as a profoundly radical intellectual endeavor that goes to the very roots of inquiry into what it is to be human and to anthropology as a comparative project that should be central to any attempt to understand who we are

The Colonial Art of Demonizing Others Esther Lezra, 2014-03-21 The Colonial Art of Demonizing Others examines European mistranslations and misrepresentations of black freedom dreams and self activity as monstrous in the period of modern imperial consolidation roughly from 1750 to 1848 This book argues that Europe s archives of self understanding are haunted by the traces of Black radical resistance Just as Europe s economy came to depend upon the raw materials markets and labor it secured from the colonies European culture came to be based on fantasies and phobias derived from the unruly and unmanageable aftershocks of colonial violence and counter insurgency Rather than assert that European nationalist and abolitionist discourses are on the side of emancipatory movements the book shows the limits of the promise of that discourse and the continuation of those limitations that makes the continued pursuit of that promise a questionable activity This book does not wish to salvage the emancipatory promises of European discourse but considers the more difficult and uncomfortable question of why emancipatory movements represented the struggles of anticolonial and radical blackness the way they did The Colonial Art of Demonizing Others privileges the political reading not only of literary texts but also of historical documents and visual culture American Borders Paula Barba Guerrero, Mónica Fernández

Jiménez, 2023-11-15 American Borders Inclusion and Exclusion in US Culture provides an overview of American culture produced in a range of contexts from the founding of the nation to the age of globalization and neoliberalism in order to understand the diverse literary landscapes of the United States from a twenty first century perspective The authors confront American exceptionalism discourses on freedom and democracy and US foundational narratives by reassessing the literary canon and exploring ethnic literature culture and film with a focus on identity and exclusion Their contributions envision different manifestations of conviviality and estrangement and deconstruct neoliberal slogans analyzing hospitable inclusion in relation to national history and ideologies By looking at representations of foreignness and conditional belonging in literature and film from different ethnic traditions the volume fleshes out a new border dialectic that conveys the heterogeneity of American boundaries beyond the opposition inside outside What are Exhibitions for? An Anthropological Approach Inge Daniels, 2019-02-07 Why do people go to exhibitions and what do they hope to gain from the experience What would happen if people were encouraged to move freely through exhibition spaces take photographs and be playful In this book Inge Daniels explores what might happen if people and objects were freed from the regulations currently associated with going to an exhibition Traditional understandings of exhibitions place the viewers in a one way communication form where the exhibition and those behind its creation inform their audiences However motivations behind exhibition going are multiple and complex and frequently the intentions of curators do not match the expectations of their visitors Based on an in depth ethnographic examination of the processes involved in the making and reception of one particular exhibition experiment as well as a study that follows freed objects into their new homes this publication not only sheds light on what exhibitions are but also what they could become in the future Featuring over 175 colour illustrations and using practical examples this is an important contribution for students and scholars of anthropology museum studies photography design
