EARTH'S SYSTEMS: WATER CYCLE & FRESH VS. SALTWATER

The water from the tap is HOW OLD?

Read the passage and answer the questions.

Water from the tap is not just water. It is a mixture of water and other substances. The water cycle is a continuous process that moves water around the Earth. The water cycle is a never-ending loop. It starts with evaporation, where water turns into vapor and rises into the air. Then, it condenses into clouds. When the clouds get heavy, it rains or snows. The water falls back to the ground and either soaks into the ground or runs off into a body of water. The water in the ground is called groundwater. The water in the oceans is called saltwater. The water in the lakes and rivers is called freshwater. The water cycle is a complex system that keeps the Earth's water supply fresh and clean.

A Water Droplet's Journey

Read the passage and answer the questions.

A water droplet's journey is a fascinating one. It starts in the clouds, where it is born from a tiny cloud droplet. The droplet grows as it collects more water vapor. When it gets big enough, it falls to the ground. It can fall as rain or snow. If it falls as rain, it can fall into a body of water or on the ground. If it falls on the ground, it can soak into the ground or run off into a body of water. The water cycle is a continuous process that moves water around the Earth.
