The Two Elsie's, Book 11 Martha Finley, 2001-11. The Elsie Dinsmore Novels Martha Finley in our opinion is the author of the best Series of novels that we have seen in our forty three years of reviewing. Written by Martha Finley an unmarried teacher of the last century these novels proved to be a means of conveying her deep love for Christ Jesus. She loved her Lord she loved His Word and this love was passed on to His sheep through the writing of by far the best and most Biblical novels you will ever read or see. Altogether there are 28 of these novels all built around Elsie Dinsmore her immediate family her extended family and her neighbors. Catalogue of the Public Library of the City of Fall River Fall River Public Library, 1882. The Two Elsie's Martha Finley, 1885. The Universe of Oz Kevin K. Durand, Mary K. Leigh, 2010-03-08. The Wizard of Oz has captured the imagination of the public since publication of L. Frank Baum's first book of the series in 1900. Oz has shaped the way we read children's literature view motion pictures and experience musicals. Oz has captured the scholarly imagination as well. The seventeen essays in this book address numerous questions of the boundaries between literature film and stage and these have become essential to Oz scholarship. Together the essays explore the ways in which Oz tells us much about ourselves our society and our journeys.

Mr Horace Dinsmore was quite remarkable for his conversational powers and Rose who had always heretofore found him a most entertaining companion wondered greatly at his silence on this particular evening. She waited in vain for him to start some topic of conversation but as he did not seem disposed to do so she at length made the attempt herself and tried one subject after another. Finding however that she was answered only in monosyllables she too grew silent and embarrassed and heartily wished for the relief of Elsie's presence. She had proposed summoning the child to accompany them as usual but Mr Dinsmore replied that she had already had sufficient exercise and he would prefer having her remain at home. They had walked some distance and coming to a rustic seat where they had often rested they sat down. The moon was shining softly down upon them and all nature seemed hushed and still. For some moments neither of them spoke but at length Mr Dinsmore broke the silence. Miss Allison he said in his deep rich tones I would like to tell you a story if you will do me the favor to listen. It would have been quite impossible for Rose to tell why her heart beat so fast at this very commonplace remark but so it was and she could scarcely steady her voice to reply I always find your stories interesting Mr Dinsmore. He began at once.

Somewhere between ten and eleven years ago a wild reckless boy of seventeen very much spoiled by the indulgence of a fond doting father who loved and petted him as the only son of his departed mother was spending a few months in one of our large Southern cities where he met and soon fell desperately in love with a beautiful orphan heiress some two years his junior The boy was of too ardent a temperament and too madly in love to brook for a moment the thought of waiting until parents and guardians should consider them of suitable age to marry in addition to which he had good reason to fear that his father with whom family pride was a ruling passion would entirely refuse his consent upon learning that the father of the young lady had begun life as a poor uneducated boy and worked his way up to wealth and position by dint of hard labor and incessant application to business
