

THE TELL-TALE HEART

by Edgar Allan Poe

Underline what the narrator is trying to prove he is not. He is trying to prove that he isn't crazy.

Underline an example of how the "disease" impacted the narrator.

The narrator notes that the disease has impacted his sense, especially his hearing.

What evidence is there that the narrator is insane? The fact that is obsessing over something could suggest he is insane.

What evidence is there that the narrator is sane? How rational he is and how much cares about the old man.

What is a vulture? What does it do?

At this point in the text do you believe the narrator is crazy?

How does the narrator demonstrate two personalities?

During the day the narrator is kind to the old man, and at night he sneaks into his room and watches him as he sleeps.

"TRUE! --nervous --very, very dreadfully nervous I had been and am; but why will you say that I am mad? The disease had sharpened my senses --not destroyed --not dulled them. Above all was the sense of hearing acute. I heard all things in the heaven and in the earth. I heard many things in hell. How, then, am I mad? Hearken! and observe how healthily --how calmly I can tell you the whole story.

It is impossible to say how first the idea entered my brain; but once conceived, it haunted me day and night. Object there was none. Passion there was none. I loved the old man. He had never wronged me. He had never given me insult. For his gold I had no desire. I think it was his eye! yes, it was this! He had the eye of a vulture --a pale blue eye, with a film over it. Whenever it fell upon me, my blood ran cold; and so by degrees --very gradually --I made up my mind to take the life of the old man, and thus rid myself of the eye forever.

Now this is the point. You fancy me mad. Madmen know nothing. But you should have seen me. You should have seen how wisely I proceeded --with what caution --with what foresight --with what dissimulation I went to work! I was never kinder to the old man than during the whole week before I killed him. And every night, about midnight, I turned the latch of his door and opened it --oh so gently! And then, when I had made an opening sufficient for my head, I put in a dark lantern, all closed, closed, that no light shone out, and then I thrust in my head. Oh, you would have laughed to see how cunningly I thrust it in! I moved it slowly --very, very slowly, so that I might not disturb the old man's sleep. It took me an hour to place my whole head within the opening so far that I could see him as he lay upon his bed.

What contrasting ideas are presented in the first paragraph? Contrasting ideas are heaven and hell.

What do this ideas usually represent? Good and Evil

What contrasting ideas are presented in the second paragraph? Contrasting ideas are day and night

How might the contrasting represent the narrator? In this context the author might be hinting at the duality in the persona of the narrator.

What is the narrator emphasizing when he notes "my blood ran cold"? How does the contrast with how he previously described himself?
