Audretsch, 2015-03-02

Every city region and state wants to do better or at the very least not do worse. Places have a strong and vigorous concern with and stake in generating a stronger economic performance. This concern spans a broad spectrum of constituents and interests including business, labor, non-profit organizations, government, and private residents. However, such decision makers mandated with the strategic management of their place receive little guidance or insight from scholars in terms of a systematic framework for evaluating how to generate and sustain a competitive advantage for their place. While an entire academic field exists devoted to analyzing how firms and organizations can create and sustain a competitive advantage and ultimately a strong economic performance, the field of strategic management in business schools has no such analogous field exists which is devoted to guiding and informing decision makers mandated and concerned with the strategic management of their place. Everything in Its Place seeks to fill this intellectual void explaining the underlying economic and social factors and the broad spectrum of policies and instruments that can actually influence and enhance economic performance in places. Several academic fields have generated a number of important theories, empirical findings, and case studies that shed considerable light on identifying and unraveling the underlying forces about what shapes this economic performance. Combined in this book with the actual experiences and instincts garnered from practitioners and policy makers, these insights are integrated together into a coherent, inclusive framework to guide and inform thought leaders and scholars in the strategic management of places.

The Empirical and Institutional Dimensions of Smart Specialisation Philip McCann, Frank van Oort, John Goddard, 2016-11-25. Smart specialisation is the new policy approach to the development of regional innovation systems across Europe and it involves fostering innovative and entrepreneurial initiatives which are well tailored to the local context. The different technologies, skills, profiles, business activities, institutions, and sectors which reflect a region's economic strengths and potential are to be fostered and encouraged to diversify in ways which also exploit the region's linkages with broader global value chains. Yet the ideas contained in the smart specialisation agenda have until now been primarily conceptual in nature. The Empirical and Institutional Dimensions of Smart Specialisation draws together some of the leading regional economists and scientists in Europe to analyse how smart specialisation is working in practice. This book investigates different dimensions of the agenda as it is developing across parts of Europe from both quantitative and qualitative perspectives. The quantitative analysis examines the nature of the diversification processes undertaken by regions and the interplay between the chosen local regional development priorities and the wider global value chain impacts of these choices. Meanwhile the qualitative analysis examines the institutional opportunities and challenges facing policy makers and the key elements most likely to provide the underpinnings of a workable set of policy settings. The book is aimed both at academic researchers interested in the interface between economic geography and regional innovation systems as well as at policy makers making public policy decisions related to regional development at the local, city, regional, or national levels.

Cities and the Super-Rich Ray Forrester, Sin Yee Koh, Bart Wissink, 2017-02-28. With the rise of wealth inequalities, our cities are changing dramatically This collection critically engages with and advances existing debates on the super rich and their roles in these transformations An interdisciplinary range of contributions from international experts including sociologists geographers historians discourse analysts and urban studies specialists reveal crucial aspects of the real estate investment practices of the super rich their social spaces in the city as well as the distinct influence of the super rich on the transformation of four key cities London Tokyo Singapore and Hong Kong By drawing together diverse disciplines perspectives and experiences across different geographical contexts this book offers a fresh comparative and nuanced take on the super rich and the 1% city as well as a solid empirically and theoretically grounded basis to think about future research questions and policy implications

Urban China The World Bank;Development Research Center of the State Council,2014-07-29 In the last 30 years China's record economic growth lifted half a billion people out of poverty with rapid urbanization providing abundant labor cheap land and good infrastructure While China has avoided some of the common ills of urbanization strains are showing as inefficient land development leads to urban sprawl and ghost towns pollution threatens people's health and farmland and water resources are becoming scarce With China's urban population projected to rise to about one billion or close to 70 percent of the country's population by 2030 China's leaders are seeking a more coordinated urbanization process Urban China is a joint research report by a team from the World Bank and the Development Research Center of China's State Council which was established to address the challenges and opportunities of urbanization in China and to help China forge a new model of urbanization The report takes as its point of departure the conviction that China's urbanization can become more efficient inclusive and sustainable However it stresses that achieving this vision will require strong support from both government and the markets for policy reforms in a number of areas The report proposes six main areas for reform first amending land management institutions to foster more efficient land use denser cities modernized agriculture and more equitable wealth distribution second adjusting the hukou household registration system to increase labor mobility and provide urban migrant workers equal access to a common standard of public services third placing urban finances on a more sustainable footing while fostering financial discipline among local governments fourth improving urban planning to enhance connectivity and encourage scale and agglomeration economies fifth reducing environmental pressures through more efficient resource management and sixth improving governance at the local level

Strong to Save: Maritime Mission in Hong Kong from Whampoa Reach to the Mariners' Club Stephen Davies,2017-07-19 Tracing its origins back to 1822 in Whampoa the Mariners Club in Hong Kong was established to meet a specific need for an Anglo Chinese society defined by that most dubious of activities seafaring Its creation was anything but straightforward and in this can be seen the mutable and often tortuous relations between the various religious bodies the local population the transient sailors the emerging captains of industry and the growing regulatory reach of the colonial government The club evolved through many embodiments and witnessed the growth of Hong Kong from a collection of mat sheds on the foreshore through colony to its current status Throughout its turbulent past it has been occasionally marginalized but has always served as an important base for the key actors in the main commercial activity in Hong Kong seafarers This is a history of one of the most enduring institutions of Hong Kong and the first of its kind Using the Club's own records as well as a wide range of sources both from within Hong Kong and from the seafaring world at large this is a comprehensive account of the life of the Missions the tenancy of the different chaplains managers and stewards the changes in seafaring practices and shipping and the transformation of Hong Kong itself

Developmentalist Cities? Interrogating Urban Developmentalism in East Asia, 2018-11-26 Developmentalist Cities addresses the missing urban story in research on East Asian developmentalism and the missing developmentalist story in studies of East Asian urbanization It does so by promoting inter disciplinary research into the subject of urban developmentalism a term that editors Jamie Doucette and Bae Gyoonyoung use to highlight the particular nature of the urban as a site of and for developmentalist intervention The contributors to this volume deepen this concept by examining the legacy of how Cold War and post Cold War geopolitical economy spaces of exception from special zones to industrial districts and diverse forms of expertise have helped produce urban space in East Asia Contributors Carolyn Cartier Christina Kim Chilcote Young Jin Choi Jamie Doucette Eli Friedman Jim Glassman Heidi Gottfried Laam Hae Jinn yuh Hsu Iam Chong Ip Jin Bum Jang Soo Hyun Kim Jana M Kleibert Kah Wee Lee Seung Ook Lee Christina Moon Bae Gyoonyoung Park Hyun Bang Shin

China's Backyard Jason Morris-Jung, 2018-05-24 In this multi disciplinary and multi sited volume the authors challenge reductionist and oversimplifying approaches to understanding China's engagement with Southeast Asia Productively viewing these interactions through a resource lens the editor has transcended disciplinary and area studies divides in order to assemble a dynamic and diverse group of scholars with extensive experience across Southeast Asia and in China all while bringing together perspectives from resource economics policy analysis international relations human geography political ecology history sociology and anthropology The result is an important collection that not only offers empirically detailed studies of Chinese energy and resource investments in Southeast Asia but which attends to the complex and often ambivalent ways in which such investments have become both a source of anxiety and aspiration for different stakeholders in the region
