Gerald M. Phillips ,2005 Communication Incompetencies Gerald M. Phillips,1991 Gerald M Phillips draws on his twenty five year five thousand client experience with the Pennsylvania State University Reticence Program to present a new theory of modification of inept communication behavior That experience has convinced Phillips that communication is arbitrary and rulebound rather than a process of inspiration He demonstrates that communication problems can be described as errors that can be detected and classified in order to fit a remediation pattern Regardless of the source of error the remedy is to train the individual to avoid or eliminate errors thus orderly procedure will result in competent performance Inept communicators must be made aware of the obligations and constraints imposed by deep structures that require us to achieve a degree of formal order in our language without which our discourse becomes incomprehensible Official National Guard Register (Army) United States. Watson,1989-04-11 Convinced that public speaking fears outranked all other fears the authors combined their years of teaching novice speakers to set forth their techniques for reducing apprehension and sharpening communication performance skills The three basic techniques stressed are cognitive structuring or attitude change relaxation techniques and skills training All of the topics addressed herein are intended for students in basic speech communication classes Some of the topics are the process of communication assessing yourself as a communicator improving attitudes and reducing apprehension preparing and delivering a public speech improving skills in group discussions as well as in all types of social relationships First published by Harper and Row in 1986 Official National Guard Register (Army) ,1936 Students as

Real People Robert T. Anderson, 2020-02-13 A teacher of communication expresses his concern for thousands of students who are cheating themselves out of a worthwhile education by falling into the accepted role of nonperson uninvolved in the education process In this book the author fosters a belief that success or failure in college depends on communication interdependent efforts of people in a relationship to generate common meaning He proposes to get students to realize that their education is something other students can help them develop as much as teachers The author uses a personal style of writing to talk with the students He uses examples from the students immediate campus environment in challenging them to question their roles in the educational process Written for and tested in interpersonal communication courses the book is also appropriate for teacher education courses orientation to college life courses and for college counseling centers
