foundational not because they match reality little in nature behaves like Mendel's peas but because in England in the early years of the twentieth century a ferocious debate ended as it did On one side was the Cambridge biologist William Bateson who in Mendel's name wanted biology and society reorganized around the recognition that heredity is destiny On the other side was the Oxford biologist W F R Weldon who admiring Mendel's discoveries in a limited way thought Bateson's Mendelism represented a backward step since it pushed growing knowledge of the modifying role of environments internal and external to the margins Weldon's untimely death in 1906 before he could finish a book setting out his alternative vision is Radick suggests what sealed the Mendelian victory Bringing together extensive archival research with searching analyses of the nature of science and history Disputed Inheritance challenges the way we think about genetics and its possibilities past present and future
