

WITI Foundation Hall of Fame General Guidelines

The WITI Hall of Fame was launched in 1996 to provide a forum to recognize, celebrate and publicize the work of women whose contributions to science and technology are largely being ignored and lost in history.

In writing a nomination form, you are chronicling history. The burden of responsibility falls on the person nominating to give us the information we need to justify the candidate's induction. If your candidate is selected, the information you provide is also used in promotional materials for years to come.

Remember, it might be confusing for your candidate to have to give us information to justify her induction after the judges select her. The judges are making their decisions based only on the information included in the submissions given them. The information you provide will be incorporated into the description given about the inductee at the induction ceremony, so we rely on you to give us accurate and extensive information.

Once the nomination forms are complete and submitted, they go straight to the judges who must rely on the information your submission provides to choose the best candidates for induction.

Avoid lengthy descriptions about the company or organization a candidate works for unless that information ties in to the candidates' criteria in some way. The judges are discouraged from making their decisions based on their feelings about the organizations of the candidates.

Letters of recommendation are not required but are accepted, influential and do help your candidate in the selection process. Letters of recommendation personalize your candidate to the judges.

Lastly, feel a sense of responsibility towards the candidate you chose. Are they going to feel worthy of induction compared to the other WITI Hall of Fame inductees? Ask yourself, are you really choosing to submit the best person you know or someone you simply like?

Again, we look forward to hearing about your candidate. If your candidate is not selected, please be assured that nominators have improved and resubmitted their forms successfully in subsequent years. Sometimes excellent candidates for induction have not been represented well in the nomination forms and consequently not selected that particular year.

WITI accepts nominations all throughout the calendar year for the WITI Hall of Fame. The submission deadline for candidates is March 1, 2020.

The nomination forms are sent to an independent panel of judges. The inductees will be selected and notified shortly thereafter and inducted at the annual ceremony to take place June 23, 2020.

All Hall of Fame candidates must be nominated by a second party in order to receive consideration.

Nominees must be personally available to accept the WITI Hall of Fame Award - no exceptions

Thank you for your time and for providing us information for these very inspirational candidates.
