Legislature. Senate,1844 Samuel Pepys and the Second Dutch War Robert Latham,1995 The originals of these documents Pepys s Navy White Book and his Brooke House Papers were preserved by Pepys in his library which he left in his will to Magdalene College Cambridge where they have been kept as he left them to this day Here transcribed from Pepys s shorthand by William Matthews and Charles Knighton

they represent one of the most important surviving records relating to the Second Dutch War Lasting from 1665 to 1667 it culminated in the humiliating Dutch raid on the Medway which led directly to England signing the Treaty of Breda to end the war The documents illustrate both the activities of the Navy Board and the work of Pepys its clerk over the years during which he established his dominance over his colleagues and eventually became the King s foremost spokesman on Naval affairs They are divided in effect into three parts the first representing more than half of the total being the Navy White Book a memorandum book he kept between 1664 and 1672 which thus covers both the war itself and its immediate aftermath It was a period when the Navy Board was particularly busy and Pepys describes it in rich and comprehensive detail while providing frank commentary on his incompetent colleagues and the Board s dishonest contractors It thus provides a unique insight into the workings of the administrative machine over the period The second and third sections are both concerned with the Brooke House Commission the statutory body appointed in December 1667 to scrutinize the Navy Board s management of the finances of the war Considerably more rigorous than the earlier Parliamentary investigation the Commission was seen by Pepys as a formidable challenge composed as it was of the greatest people that ever were in the nation as to power The papers are of particular value because the official records are scattered and incomplete The first section comprises Pepys s defence of the Navy Board and of himself against the criticisms of the Commission in the report it issued in 1669 They made eighteen Observations each of which Pepys summarised and answered In particular he had along with others to counter the charge that over 500 000 had been spent on other uses than the war in effect code for providing for the King s mistresses out of money meant for the war Faced with the counter argument that the King had in fact spent of over 800 000 of his own money on the war and that in any case they had failed to take into account the cost of preparing for the war as well as waging it the Commission backed down in all humility The final section is Pepys s Brooke House Journal covering the period from December 1670 to February 1671 In it he recorded day by day his part in the debates held before the Privy Council between the Commissioners and the Navy Board It is the only record of the proceedings known to survive
