Nepal's 2072 federal constitution: Implications for the governance of the agricultural sector Kyle, Jordan, Resnick, Danielle, 2016-12-22 In this paper we explore the implications of Nepal s new federal Constitution passed in September 2015 for governance of the agricultural sector Agriculture is the backbone of the Nepali economy providing a livelihood for approximately two thirds of the population contributing one third of the country s GDP and constituting more than half of the country s exports In transitioning from a unitary to a federal republic with greater authority and autonomy granted to subnational units of government it is of paramount importance to ensure that the agricultural sector is guided by coordinated planning retains sufficient human capacity and receives adequate fiscal resources These considerations are particularly important given that the governance of Nepal s agricultural sector already suffers from poor coordination low human resources capacity and inadequate financial resources Addressing these issues may become more difficult under a federal structure This paper begins by laying out the main challenges for agricultural governance in Nepal under the current structure To do so it relies on an original survey of 100 district agricultural and livestock officers in charge of local agricultural service delivery in Nepal as well as perspectives collected through more than two dozen semi structured interviews with officials from the Ministry of Agricultural Development the Ministry of Livestock Development civil society the private sector and donors Because Nepal is embarking on a pathway to more decentralized governance which has been well trodden by a number of other countries the paper proceeds by examining five case studies drawing lessons from India Indonesia Kenya Malaysia and South Africa Based on these analyses the paper offers policy recommendations on how the sector can be restructured to meet the constitutional provisions while simultaneously ensuring that the government can deliver on its long term objectives to develop the agricultural sector

The Concept and Application of Transdisciplinarity in Intellectual Discourse and Research Hester du Plessis, Jeffrey Sehume, Leonard Martin, 2014-02-01 In the past four decades transdisciplinarity has gained conceptual and practical traction for its transformative value in accounting for the complex challenges besetting humankind including social relations and natural ecosystems The need to develop frameworks for joint problem solving involving diverse stakeholders is unquestionable Besides generating inclusivity which embraces academia civil society and policymakers in the public and private sectors transdisciplinarity allows for the appreciation of phenomena from a multiplicity of angles and affords societies creative ways of seeking solutions to challenges that may appear intractable This book puts forward alternatives within this arena and attempts to directly respond to the multilayered challenges of diffuse disciplines interlinked socioeconomic problems impacts of globalization technological advancements environmental concerns food security and more

Unlocking the Lower Skies Aiga Stokenberga, Maria Catalina Ochoa, 2021-06-08 This book explores the economic and broader societal rationale for using unmanned aerial vehicle UAV or drone technologies as a complement to the current transport and logistics systems in several use cases in East Africa The specific use cases examined include medical goods deliveries food aid delivery land mapping and risk assessment agriculture and transport and energy infrastructure inspection Across these applications the case for using UAVs is examined within the context of logistics objectives total operating costs speed availability and flexibility as well as human or societal objectives In the public health use case as more low and middle income countries explore opportunities to improve efficiency and performance in their health supply chains and diagnostics networks they face myriad choices about how best to use UAVs to improve product availability and public health outcomes and to reach the last mile The high level findings from this analysis are that if examining commodity categories individually and looking exclusively at costs delivery with UAVs in general is still more expensive for most categories Although the cost is still higher the most cost effective use case examples include the transport of laboratory samples to selected destinations and delivery of life saving items and blood However layering several use cases can provide efficiencies and cost savings by allocating fixed costs across a greater number of flights and maximizing capacity and time utilization From the perspective of public decision makers the cost effectiveness of UAVs cannot be analyzed without looking at the public health benefits which may be substantial Drone application in the other use cases examined in this book such as mapping risk assessment and agriculture is relatively more common than cargo drone operations and the existing pilot initiatives in East Africa have delivered impressive results for speed and quality precision Food aid delivery by drones is still mostly at a planning rather than implementation stage Drone applications are rapidly evolving and several use cases could gain impact and scale over the coming years

Agriculture, Autonomous Development, and Prospects for Industrialization in Africa Emmanuel Ndhlovu, 2025-03-06 The book investigates the intersection of agriculture and development in Africa and how it impacts rural industrialisation prospects It provides a comprehensive view of the position of agriculture in African socio economic activities and the agricultural sector's potential as the source for continental development and industrialisation prospects Significant research has been done on African development with a focus placed on the problematic role played by slavery colonialism and later by incompetent African leaders who failed to steer development of the type that delivers a progressive sustained and sustainable transformation of lives and societies There is limited focus on the possibility of agriculture being the potential basis of African development and the chance for industrialisation This is a matter of concern considering the dominance of agriculture as a livelihood and income source for many people on the continent In contributing to the debate on development in Africa this book aims to show how agriculture can serve as the basis for African development and industrialisation This will be achieved by i providing a detailed historical description of the position of agriculture in African socio economic activities ii outlining the trajectory of African development with a focus on agriculture innovation and mechanisation iii identifying challenges to the development of African agriculture iv exploring the opportunities for agricultural development in Africa and v providing practical and policy recommendations to improve African agriculture and make it the engine for development and industrialisation Utilising a multidisciplinary approach which combines political economy social policy financial inclusion and empowerment approaches the book also shows how engagement of youth and women digitalisation and the provision of support by public and private actors can jump start agriculture as the engine of African development and industrialisation Taken together with this conscious effort to promote a multi disciplinary discussion the book is valuable reading for students policymakers and activists interested in emerging new directions in African development thinking and research
