Hilger,2023-04-04 How parents have been set up to fail and why helping them succeed is the key to achieving a fair and prosperous society Few people realize that raising children is the single largest industry in the United States Yet this vital work receives little political support and its primary workers parents labor in isolation If they ask for help they are made to feel inadequate there is no centralized organization to represent their interests and there is virtually nothing spent on research and development to help them achieve their goals It s almost as if parents are set up to fail and the result is lost opportunities that limit children s success and make us all worse off In The Parent Trap Nate Hilger combines cutting edge social science research revealing historical case studies and on the ground investigation to recast parenting as the hidden crucible of inequality Parents are expected not only to care for their children but to help them develop the skills they will need to thrive in today s socioeconomic reality but most parents including even the most caring parents on the planet are not trained in skill development and lack the resources to get help How do we fix this The solution Hilger argues is to ask less of parents not more America should consider child development a public investment with a monumental payoff We need a program like Medicare call it Familycare to drive this investment To make it happen parents need to organize to wield their political power on behalf of children who will always be the largest bloc of disenfranchised people in this country The Parent Trap exposes the true costs of our society s unrealistic expectations around parenting and lays out a profoundly hopeful blueprint for reform The Oxford Handbook of Children and the Law ,2020-02-07 The Oxford Handbook of Children and the Law presents cutting edge scholarship on a broad range of topics covering the life course of humans from before birth to adulthood by leading scholars in law medicine social work sociology education and philosophy and by practitioners in law and medicine An international collection of authors presents and analyzes the law and science pertaining to reproduction prenatal life including fetal exposure to toxic substances and abortion parentage including biology based rights background checks on birth parents adoption the status of gamete donors and surrogacy infant development and vulnerability child maltreatment including corporal punishment and religious defences to abuse and neglect child protection policy and systems foster care child custody disputes between parents or between parents and other caregivers schooling including financing resegregation religious expression in public schools at risk students special education regulation of private schools and homeschooling delinquency minimum age laws and child advocacy Most chapters follow a format wherein they first describe the most debated or dynamic issues in each topical area then explain in depth the law and or science pertaining to the author s particular focus and finally offer arguments and recommendations as to law and policy in that area The normative component aims to advance discussions and debates in vital areas of contemporary child welfare law and policy The Handbook is an essential resource for scholars and professionals interested in the intersection of children and the law

The Political Economy of Fossil Fuel Subsidy Removal Mariza Montes de Oca Leon, Achim Hagen, Franziska Holz, 2024-11 We study the impact of fossil fuel subsidy removal on presidential popularity using difference indifference approaches and a stylized theoretical model Analyzing macro level data for two subsidy removal events in Mexico and Bolivia in the early 2010s we find evidence of a negative impact on presidential approval Our theoretical probabilistic voting model predicts that the decline in popularity is driven by high income groups if subsidies are regressive and that lack of trust in the government lowers popularity of the removal in all income groups We confirm these predictions using micro level data for the Mexican subsidy removal event

From Mines and Wells to Well-Built Minds Bénédicte de la Brière, Deon Filmer, Dena Ringold, Dominic Rohner, Anastasiya Denisova, 2017-05-17 Sub Saharan Africa s natural resource rich countries have poor human development Children in these countries are more likely to die before their first birthday more likely to be stunted and less likely to attend school than children in other countries with similar income Despite the current price downturn extractives will remain an important part of Sub Saharan Africa s growth story using resource rents wisely remains a long term challenge Governments must choose how to allocate resource rents between spending investing in human or physical capital or investing in global financial assets The return to investing in physical and human capital will be high in countries where the capital stock is low Moreover higher levels of human capital make investments in physical capital more productive which suggests that the optimal portfolio will involve investing in both Human capital should be prioritized in many of Sub Saharan Africa s resource rich countries because of the low starting point Investing effectively in human capital is hard because it involves delivering services which means coordinating a large number of actors and activities Three dimensions of governance are key institutions incentives and information Decentralization and leveraging the private sector are entry points to reforming institutional structures Revenues from natural resources can fund financial incentives to strengthen performance or demand Producing information making it available and increasing social accountability helps citizens understand their rights and hold governments and providers accountable Improving the quality of education and health services is central to improving human capital Two additional areas are promising First early child development mother and newborn health and early child nutrition care and education improves outcomes in childhood and later on Second cash transfers either conditional or unconditional reduce poverty increase household investments in child education nutrition and health and increase the investment in productive assets which foster further income generation
