Hermeneutics, Politics, and the History of Religions Christian K. Wedemeyer,Wendy Doniger,2010 This volume comprises papers presented at a conference marking the 50th anniversary of Joachim Wach s death and the centennial of Mircea Eliade s birth Its purpose is to reconsider both the problematic separate legacies of these two major twentieth century historians of religions and the bearing of these two legacies upon each other Shortly after Wach s death in 1955 Eliade succeeded him as the premiere historian of religions at the University of Chicago As a result the two have been associated with each other in many people s minds as the successive leaders of the so called Chicago School in the history of religions In fact as this volume makes clear there never was a monolithic Chicago School Although Wach reportedly referred to Eliade as the most astute historian of religions of the day the two never met and their approaches to the study of religions differed significantly Several dominant issues run through the essays collected here the relationship between the two men s writings and their lives and in Eliade s case the relationship between his political commitments and his writings in fiction history of religions and autobiography Both men s contributions to the field continue to provoke controversy and debate and this volume sheds new light on these controversies and what they reveal about these two scholars legacies The "New Man" in Radical Right Ideology and Practice, 1919-45 Jorge Dagnino,Matthew Feldman,Paul Stocker,2018-01-25 Bringing together an expert group of established and emerging scholars this book analyses the pervasive myth of the new man in various fascist movements and far right regimes between 1919 and 1945 Through a series of ground breaking case studies focusing on countries in Europe but with additional chapters on Argentina Brazil and Japan The New Man in Radical Right Ideology and Practice 1919 45 argues that what many national forms of far right politics understood at the time as a so called anthropological revolution is essential to understanding this ideology s bio political often revolutionary dynamics It explores how these movements promoted the creation of a new ideal human what this ideal looked like and what this things tell us about fascism s emergence in the 20th century The years after World War One saw the rise of regimes and movements professing totalitarian aims In the case of revolutionary radical right movements these totalising goals extended to changing the very nature of humanity through modern science propaganda and conquest At its most extreme one of the key aims of fascism the most extreme manifestation of radical right politics between the wars was to create a new man Naturally this manifested itself in different ways in varying national contexts and this volume explores these manifestations in order to better comprehend early 20th century fascism both within national boundaries and in a broader transnational context
