Order and Directions

1. The first step in publishing is to write a book. This is done by the author, who is usually a professional writer. The author writes the story, and then the publisher decides whether to publish it. If the publisher decides to publish the book, they will hire a designer to create the cover and layout of the book. The publisher will also hire a printer to print the book. Finally, the publisher will distribute the book to bookstores and libraries.
