Steiner, 2018-05-04 Community and regional planning involve thinking ahead and formally envisioning the future for ourselves and others according to Frederick R Steiner Improved plans can lead to healthier safer and more beautiful places to live for us and other species We can also plan for places that are more just and more profitable Plans can help us not only to sustain what we value but also to transcend sustainability by creating truly regenerative communities that is places with the capacity to restore renew and revitalize their own sources of energy and materials In Making Plans Steiner offers a primer on the planning process through a lively firsthand account of developing plans for the city of Austin and the University of Texas campus As dean of the UT School of Architecture Steiner served on planning committees that addressed the future growth of the city and the university growth that inevitably overlapped because of UT's central location in Austin As he walks readers through the planning processes Steiner illustrates how large scale planning requires setting goals and objectives reading landscapes determining best uses designing options selecting courses for moving forward taking actions and adjusting to changes He also demonstrates that planning is an inherently political sometimes messy act requiring the intelligence and ownership of the affected communities Both wise and frank Making Plans is an important philosophical and practical statement on planning by a leader in the field Discipline Problems Tadashi Dozono, 2024-05-07 Angel a Black tenth grader at a New York City public school self identifies as a nerd and likes to learn But she's troubled that her history classes leave out events like the genocide and dispossession of Indigenous people in the Americas presenting a sugar coated image of the United States that is at odds with her everyday experience The history I learned in school is simpler she says The world I live in is a lot more complex Angel like every student interviewed in Discipline Problems has been identified by teachers as a troublemaker a student whose behavior disrupts classroom norms and interferes with instruction But her critiques of the curriculum she's taught speak to her curiosity and insight crucial foundations for understanding history Like many students who have been marginalized by systemic racism in American schools she exposes the shortcomings of her classrooms academic environments by challenging both the content and the methods of her education All too often these challenges are framed as troublemaking and the students are disciplined for acting out instead of being rewarded for their intellectual engagement Tadashi Dozono a professor of education and former high school social studies teacher takes seriously the often overlooked critiques that students of color who get labeled as troublemakers direct toward their high school history curriculum He reinterprets troublemaking usually cast as a behavioral deficit as an intellectual asset and form of reasoning that challenges the disciplining reason of classrooms where whiteness is valued over the histories and knowledge of people of color Dozono shows how what are traditionally framed as discipline problems can be seen through a different lens as responses to educational practices that marginalize non white students Discipline Problems reveals how students of color seek out alternate avenues for understanding their world and imagines a pedagogy that champions the curiosity intellect and knowledge of marginalized learners
