Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 40 sedentary, middle-aged women who were randomly assigned to either a supervised walking program or a control group. The walking program consisted of 12 weeks of supervised walking, 3 times per week, for 30 minutes per session. The control group consisted of 20 women who did not participate in the walking program. The subjects were assessed at baseline and at 12 weeks. The walking program had a significant positive effect on the physical and psychological health of the subjects. The walking program significantly improved the subjects' physical health, as measured by the 6-minute walk test, and their psychological health, as measured by the Beck Depression Inventory and the State-Trait Anxiety Inventory. The walking program also had a significant positive effect on the subjects' quality of life, as measured by the SF-36. The walking program was well tolerated and had no adverse effects. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program can improve the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women.

Lab Shark Answer:

Laboratory and Field Investigations in Marine Life Gordon Dudley, James Sumich, Virginia L. Cass-Dudley, 2011-03-15 This unique marine biology laboratory and field manual engages students in the excitement and challenges of understanding marine organisms and the environments in which they live. Students will benefit from a thorough examination of topics such as the physical and chemical properties of seawater, marine microbes, algae, and a wide variety of invertebrate and vertebrate animals through observation and critical thinking activities. The manual also includes suggested topics for additional investigation which provides flexibility for both instructors and students who wish to further explore various topics of interest.

Laboratory and Field Investigations in Marine Life is the ideal complement to any marine biology teaching and learning package.

Shark Quest Karen Romano Young, 2022-03-01 Sharks are in trouble. Fifty shark species are at high risk of extinction and another sixty-three are threatened. These intelligent, mysterious, and sometimes scary fish evolved about 420 million years ago. They have adapted to survive deep in the ocean and in shallow water habitats. Commercial fishing and finning are threatening shark populations. So is water pollution. Marine biologists and others, including young people, are working together to save these fascinating predators. Discover the work of scientists and conservationists as they study shark biology and morphology, research migration, feeding, and mating patterns, delve into human climate and other threats to shark habitat, and develop sophisticated technologies to aid sharks and shark research. See how scientists also educate the public about real and imagined fear of sharks and encourage citizen participation in shark conservation efforts. Learn about high-tech tagging for tracking shark migration paths. Discover the autonomous underwater vehicles and drones that divers use to observe and photograph sharks up close. Visit shark sanctuaries in the South Pacific Ocean. You'll even meet the Shark Lady, a Eugenie Clark, a pioneer ichthyologist, shark scientist. Through research and advocacy, people around the world are working to protect and admire sharks. An engaging, well-researched book about a much-maligned species of fish that deserves our protection.

Booklist A remarkably thorough tour of the world of sharks and marine scientists' efforts to educate the public about our ocean's apex predators. Kirkus Reviews
