Lacon: or, Many things in few words Charles Caleb Colton, 1823      The Chinese Chameleon Revisited Zheng Yangwen 郑阳文, 2014-09-01 By examining how the Middle Kingdom has been portrayed by foreigners and the Chinese themselves this volume advances a new perspective in our reading and interpretation of the Chinese past by placing these producers and presenters of China in the spotlight The chapters probe how these figures produced or presented the country cross examining their backgrounds and circumstances Their gaze upon the Middle Kingdom was dictated by religious and political conviction but also particularly by the consumers of that gaze Like invisible hands producers and consumers of China continue to constrain representations of the country looming larger than the literary artistic or journalistic works they produce This volume also addresses scholars of Europe and America who have overlooked what Western writers on China reveal about their own contexts which is indeed often more than they reveal about their ostensible subject As such the Middle Kingdom serves as a convenient mirror to reflect European and American anxieties and ambitions      Lacon Charles Caleb Colton, 1836 A collection of anecdotes and witticisms on various aspects of human existence      The Homiletic Review, 1886      Translation Reconsidered Chandrani Chatterjee, 2009-12-14 The present work is an interdisciplinary study cutting across the disciplines of translation studies genre studies literary history and cultural history It primarily deals with a phase of transition in the socio cultural history of Bengal but has implications for the study of Indian literature as a whole It takes the view that translation does not merely relocate the text in the target language but negotiates several sets of relationships between the two cultures involved altering the nature of relations between them The study considers the mediating and shaping agency of genre in this context Not only are works translated but genres are translated too and assume striking and unprecedented shapes in the linguistic culture of the target audience      Lacon; or Many things in few words; addressed to those who think Charles Caleb Colton, 1821      Lacon in Council John Frederick Boyes, 1865      Deconstructing Creole Umberto Ansaldo, Stephen Matthews, Lisa Lim, 2007-06-22 Deconstructing Creole is a collection of studies aimed at critically assessing the idea of creole languages as a homogeneous structural type with shared and peculiar patterns of genesis Following up on the critical discussion of notions of creole exceptionalism as historical and ideological constructs this volume tests the basic assumptions that underlie current attempts to present creole structure as a special type from typological as well as sociohistorical perspectives The sum of the findings presented here suggests that careful empirical investigation of input varieties and contact environments can explain the structural output without recourse to an exceptional genesis scenario Echoing calls to dissolve the notion of creolization as a special diachronic process this volume proposes that theoretically grounded approaches to the notions of simplicity complexity transmission etc do not warrant considering so called creole languages as a special synchronic type      The History of the Redfearn Family Revisited Michael Robert Redfearn, 2005 James Redfearn was born between 1705 and 1711 probably in Virginia or Maryland He married Rachel and
