

Discover the hard-won heritage of Marymount College

One year before the United States granted women the right to vote, the Sisters of St. Joseph began ground on the construction of the first all-women's college in Kansas. Enduring construction costs put the school's future on jeopardy until Mother Augustine took her plea for additional funds to Pope Benedict XV himself. Dubbed the "Million-Dollar College," the rolling campus overlooking the Smoky Hill River finally opened its doors in 1911. The thousands who matriculated throughout its sixty-seven-year existence created a lasting legacy in the Seafairer State. Join alumna Patricia Ackerman as she preserves the inspiring history of Marymount College.
