

Membrane Structure and Function

How do substances move in and out of cells?

Why?

Advertisements for sports drinks, such as Gatorade®, PowerAde®, and Vitaminwater™, etc., seem to be everywhere. All of these drinks are supposed to help your body recover and replenish lost electrolytes, fluids, and vitamins after exercise. But how do the essential molecules contained in these drinks get into your cells quickly to help you recover after exercise?

Model 1 – Simple Diffusion

1. How many different types of molecules are shown in Model 1?
Two.
2. Count and record the number of triangles and circles found on each side of the membrane.
Triangles – 14 on left, none on right.
Circles – 12 on left, 13 on right.
3. Which shape is larger?
Triangle.
4. Describe the direction of the movement of the molecules in Model 1?
They move in all directions.
5. Which molecules are able to pass through the semi-permeable membrane? Justify your answer.
The dots, because they are small and can fit through the gaps, and because they are shown as equally distributed on both sides of the membrane.
6. If you left this "system" for an extended period of time and then viewed it again, would you expect to find any changes in the concentrations of the molecules on either side of the membrane? Justify your answer.
No, the concentration of triangles will remain high on the left and none on the right as they can't pass through the membrane and the circles will stay evenly distributed on both sides of the membrane due to random movement.

The first volume of the Handbook deals with the amazing world of biomembranes and lipid bilayers Part A describes all aspects related to the morphology of these membranes beginning with the complex architecture of biomembranes continues with a description of the bizarre morphology of lipid bilayers and concludes with technological applications of these membranes. The first two chapters deal with biomembranes providing an introduction to the membranes of eucaryotes and a description of the evolution of membranes. The following chapters are concerned with different aspects of lipids including the physical properties of model membranes composed of lipid protein mixtures, lateral phase separation of lipids and proteins and measurement of lipid protein bilayer diffusion. Other chapters deal with the flexibility of fluid bilayers, the closure of bilayers into vesicles which attain a large variety of different shapes and applications of lipid vesicles and liposomes. Part B covers membrane adhesion, membrane fusion and the interaction of biomembranes with polymer networks such as the cytoskeleton. The first two chapters of this part discuss the generic interactions of membranes from the conceptual point of view. The following two chapters summarize the experimental work on two different bilayer systems. The next chapter deals with the process of contact formation, focal bounding and macroscopic contacts between cells. The cytoskeleton within eucaryotic cells consists of a network of relatively stiff filaments of which three different types of filaments have been identified. As explained in the next chapter, much has been recently learned about the interaction of these filaments with the cell membrane. The final two chapters deal with membrane fusion.
