Memo Lifescience Paper 1 November 2014:

Principles of Clinical Medicine for Space Flight Michael R. Barratt, Ellen S. Baker, Sam L. Pool, 2020-01-02 In its first edition Principles of Clinical Medicine for Space Flight established itself as the authoritative reference on the contemporary knowledge base of space medicine and standards of care for space flyers. It received excellent notices and is used in the curricula of civilian and military training programs and used as a source of questions for the Aerospace Medicine Certifying Examination under the American Board of Preventive Medicine. In the intervening few years the continuous manning of the International Space Station has both strengthened existing knowledge and uncovered new and significant phenomena related to the human in space. The Second Edition incorporates this information. Gaps in the first edition will be addressed with the addition of new and revised chapters. This edition is extensively peer reviewed and represents the most up to date knowledge.

Data Management Margaret E. Henderson, 2016-10-25 Libraries organize information and data is information so it is natural that librarians should help people who need to find, organize, use, or store data. Organizations need evidence for decision making; data provides that evidence. Inventors and creators build upon data collected by others. All around us, people need data. Librarians can help increase the relevance of their library to the research and education mission of their institution by learning more about data and how to manage it. Data Management will guide readers through understanding data management basics and best practices. Using the reference interview to help with data management. Writing data management plans for grants. Starting and growing a data management service. Finding collaborators inside and outside the library. Collecting and using data in different disciplines. Managing Biotechnology Françoise Simon, Glen Giovannetti, 2017-09-01 A comprehensive overview of the new business context for biopharma companies featuring numerous case studies and state of the art marketing models. Biotechnology has developed into a key innovation driver especially in the field of human healthcare. But as the biopharma industry continues to grow and expand its reach, development costs are colliding with aging demographics and cost containment policies of private and public payers. Concurrently, the development and increased affordability of sophisticated digital technologies has fundamentally altered many industries, including healthcare. The arrival of new information technology, infotech companies on the healthcare scene presents both opportunities and challenges for the biopharma business model. To capitalize on new digital technologies from R D through commercialization requires industry leaders to adopt new business models, develop new digital and data capabilities, and partner with innovators and payers worldwide. Written by two experts, both of whom have had decades of experience in the field, this book provides a comprehensive overview of the new business context and marketing models for biotech companies. Informed by extensive input by senior biotech executives and leading consultancies serving the industry, it analyzes the strategies and key success factors for the financing, development, and commercialization of novel therapeutic products, including strategies for engagement with patients, physicians, and healthcare payers. Throughout, case studies provide researchers corporate marketers senior managers consultants financial analysts and other professionals involved in the biotech sector with insights ideas and models JACQUALYN FOUSE PhD RETIRED PRESIDENT AND CHIEF OPERATING OFFICER CELGENE Biotech companies have long been innovators using the latest technologies to enable cutting edge science to help patients with serious diseases This book is essential to help biotech firms understand how they can and must apply the newest technologies including disruptive ones alongside science to innovate and bring new value to the healthcare system BRUCE DARROW MD PhD CHIEF MEDICAL INFORMATION OFFICER MOUNT SINAI HEALTH SYSTEM Simon and Giovannetti have written an essential user s manual explaining the complicated interplay of the patients who deserve cutting edge medical care the biotechnology companies big and small creating the breakthroughs and the healthcare organizations and clinicians who bridge those worlds EMMANUEL BLIN FORMER CHIEF STRATEGY OFFICER AND SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT BRISTOL MYERS SQUIBB If you want to know where biopharma is going read this book Our industry is facing unprecedented opportunities driven by major scientific breakthroughs while transforming itself to address accelerated landscape changes driven by digital revolutions and the emergence of value based healthcare worldwide In this ever changing context we all need to focus everything we do on the patients They are why we exist as an industry and this is ultimately what this insightful essay is really about JOHN MARAGANORE PRESIDENT AND CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER ALNYLAM PHARMACEUTICALS Since the mapping of the human genome was completed nearly 15 years ago the biotechnology industry has led the rapid translation of raw science to today s innovative medicines However the work does not stop in the lab Delivering these novel medicines to patients is a complex and multifaceted process which is elegantly described in this new book How Data Happened: A History from the Age of Reason to the Age of Algorithms Chris Wiggins,Matthew L. Jones,2023-03-21 Fascinating Jill Lepore The New Yorker A sweeping history of data and its technical political and ethical impact on our world From facial recognition capable of checking people into flights or identifying undocumented residents to automated decision systems that inform who gets loans and who receives bail each of us moves through a world determined by data empowered algorithms But these technologies didn t just appear they are part of a history that goes back centuries from the census enshrined in the US Constitution to the birth of eugenics in Victorian Britain to the development of Google search Expanding on the popular course they created at Columbia University Chris Wiggins and Matthew L Jones illuminate the ways in which data has long been used as a tool and a weapon in arguing for what is true as well as a means of rearranging or defending power They explore how data was created and curated as well as how new mathematical and computational techniques developed to contend with that data serve to shape people ideas society military operations and economies Although technology and mathematics are at its heart the story of data ultimately concerns an unstable game among states corporations and people How were new technical and scientific capabilities developed who supported advanced or funded these capabilities or transitions and how did they change who could do what from what and to whom Wiggins and Jones focus on these questions as they trace data's historical arc and look to the future. By understanding the trajectory of data where it has been and where it might yet go, Wiggins and Jones argue that we can understand how to bend it to ends that we collectively choose with intentionality and purpose.

Risk Regulation in the Internal Market

Maria Weimer, 2019-03-13. This book offers a topical inquiry into the legal and political limits of EU regulation in the field of risk and new technologies surrounded by techno-scientific complexity, uncertainty, and societal contestation. It uses agricultural biotechnology as a paradigmatic example to illustrate the complex intertwinement between environmental, public health, economic, and social concerns in risk regulation. Weimer analyses the drawbacks of the EU approach to agricultural biotechnology, showing that its reductionism is the narrow understanding of GMO risks as well as the exclusion of broader societal concerns related to environmental and social sustainability. This has undermined both the legitimacy and effectiveness of EU regulation in this area. Resistance to this approach, however, has also triggered legal innovations prompting us to re-think EU internal market law, including the way in which it manages the tensions between unity and diversity and between social and economic concerns. This text offers fresh and original insights into how far the EU can go in harmonizing regulatory approaches to risk. At the same time, it proposes new ways of re-thinking EU risk regulation to make it more responsive to different perspectives on risk and technology. A unique feature of this book is that it contributes to various strains of scholarship, including risk regulation, internal market law, public administration, and studies of governance and regulation, as well as connecting these themes to broader debates about the legitimacy of European integration and new ways of differentiated integration. As a result, it assists in re-imagining the EU internal market and its regulation as a site of diversity.

Technological Innovation in Legacy Sectors William B. Bonvillian, Charles Weiss, 2015-08-18. The American economy faces two deep problems: expanding innovation and raising the rate of quality job creation. Both have roots in a neglected problem: the resistance of Legacy economic sectors to innovation. While the U.S. has focused its policies on breakthrough innovations to create new economic frontiers like information technology and biotechnology, most of its economy is locked into Legacy sectors defended by technological, economic, political, and social paradigms that block competition from disruptive innovations that could challenge their models. Americans like to build technology-covered wagons and take them out west to open new innovation frontiers; we don't head our wagons back east to bring innovation to our Legacy sectors. By failing to do so, the economy misses a major opportunity for innovation, which is the bedrock of U.S. competitiveness and its standard of living. Technological Innovation in Legacy Sectors uses a new unifying conceptual framework to identify the shared features underlying structural obstacles to innovation in major Legacy sectors: energy, air and auto transport, the electric power grid, buildings, manufacturing, agriculture, health care, delivery, and higher education, and develops approaches to understand and transform them. It finds both strengths and obstacles to innovation in the national innovation environments, a new concept that combines the innovation system and the broader innovation context for a group of Asian and European economies.

Manufacturing is a major Legacy sector that presents a particular challenge because it is a critical stage in the innovation process. By increasingly offshoring production, the U S is losing important parts of its innovation capacity. Innovate here, produce here, where the U S took all the gains of its strong innovation system, at every stage is being replaced by innovate here, produce there, which threatens to lead to produce there, innovate there. To bring innovation to Legacy sectors, authors William Bonvillian and Charles Weiss recommend that policymakers focus on all stages of innovation from research through implementation. They should fill institutional gaps in the innovation system and take measures to address structural obstacles to needed disruptive innovations. In the specific case of advanced manufacturing, the production ecosystem can be recreated to reverse jobless innovation and add manufacturing led innovation to the U S's still strong research oriented innovation system.
