How We Teach Science John L. Rudolph,2019-06-01 A former Wisconsin high school science teacher makes the case that how and why we teach science matters especially now that its legitimacy is under attack Why teach science The answer to that question will determine how it is taught Yet despite the enduring belief in this country that science should be taught there has been no enduring consensus about how or why This is especially true when it comes to teaching scientific process Nearly all of the basic knowledge we have about the world is rock solid The science we teach in high schools in particular laws of motion the structure of the atom cell division DNA replication the universal speed limit of light is accepted as the way nature works Everyone also agrees that students and the public more generally should understand the methods used to gain this knowledge But what exactly is the scientific method Ever since the late 1800s scientists and science educators have grappled with that question Through the years they ve advanced an assortment of strategies ranging from the laboratory method to the five step method to science as inquiry to no method at all How We Teach Science reveals that each strategy was influenced by the intellectual cultural and political circumstances of the time In some eras learning about experimentation and scientific inquiry was seen to contribute to an individual s intellectual and moral improvement while in others it was viewed as a way to minimize public interference in institutional science John Rudolph shows that how we think about and teach science will either sustain or thwart future innovation and ultimately determine how science is perceived and received by the public

Jansen,2019-11-05 This volume brings together many of South Africa s leading scholars of education and covers the full range of South African schooling from financing and policy reform to in depth discussions of literacy numeracy teacher development and curriculum change The book moves beyond a historical analysis and provides an inside view of the questions South African scholars are now grappling with Are there different and preferential equilibria we have not yet thought of or explored and if so what are they In practical terms how does one get to a more equitable distribution of teachers resources and learning outcomes While decidedly local these questions resonate throughout the developing world

South Africa today is the most unequal country in the world. The richest 10% of South Africans lay claim to 65% of national income and 90% of national wealth. This is the largest 90/10 gap in the world and one that is reflected in the schooling system. Two decades after apartheid it is still the case that the life chances of most South African children are determined not by their ability or the result of hard work and determination but instead by the colour of their skin, the province of their birth and the wealth of their parents. Looking back on almost three decades of democracy in South Africa it is this stubbornness of inequality and its patterns of persistence that demands explanation, justification and analysis. This is a landmark book on basic education in South Africa, an essential volume for those interested in learning outcomes and their inequality in South Africa. The various chapters present conceptually and empirically sophisticated analyses of learning outcomes across divisions of race, class and place. The book brings together the wealth of decades of research output from top quality researchers to explore what has improved, what has not and why. Prof Lant Pritchett, Harvard University. There is much wisdom in this collection from many of the best education analysts in South Africa. No surprise that they conclude that without a large and sustained expansion in well trained teachers, early childhood education and adequate school resources, South Africa will continue to sacrifice its people's future to maintaining the privileges of the few. Prof Martin Carnoy, Stanford University. Altogether one can derive from this very valuable volume, if not an exact blueprint for the future, then certainly at least a crucial and evidence based itinerary for the next few steps. Dr Luis Crouch, RTI.

The Value of Social, Behavioral, and Economic Sciences to National Priorities National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on the Value of Social, Behavioral, and Economic Sciences to National Priorities, 2017-07-12. Nearly every major challenge the United States faces from alleviating unemployment to protecting itself from terrorism requires understanding the causes and consequences of people's behavior. Even societal challenges that at first glance appear to be issues only of medicine or engineering or computer science have social and behavioral components. Having a fundamental understanding of how people and societies behave, why they respond the way they do, what they find important, what they believe or value, and what and how they think about others is critical for the country's well being in today's shrinking global world. The diverse disciplines of the social, behavioral, and economic (SBE) sciences—anthropology, archaeology, demography, economics, geography, linguistics, neuroscience, political science, psychology, sociology, and statistics—all produce fundamental knowledge, methods, and tools that provide a greater understanding of people and how they live. The Value of Social, Behavioral, and Economic Sciences to National Priorities evaluates whether the federal government should fund SBE research at the National Science Foundation (NSF) and specifically whether SBE research furthers the mission of the NSF to advance national priorities in the areas of health, prosperity, and welfare; national defense; and progress in science. Advances in the missions of other federal agencies and advances in business and industry and to provide examples of such research. This report identifies priorities for NSF investment in the SBE sciences and important considerations for the NSF for strategic planning Assessing Contexts of Learning Susanne Kuger,Eckhard Klieme,Nina Jude,David Kaplan,2016-12-05 This volume brings together educational effectiveness research and international large scale assessments demonstrating how the two fields can be applied to inspire and improve each other and providing readers direct links to instruments that cover a broad range of topics and have been shown to work in more than 70 countries The book s initial chapters introduce and summarize recent discussions and developments in the conceptualization implementation and evaluation of international large scale context assessments and provide an outlook on possible future developments Subsequently three thematic sections Student Background Outcomes of Education Beyond Achievement and Learning in Schools each present a series of chapters that provide the conceptual background for a wide range of important topics in education research policy and practice Each chapter defines a conceptual framework that relates recent findings in the educational effectiveness research literature to current issues in education policy and practice These frameworks were used to develop interesting and relevant indicators that may be used for meaningful reporting from international assessments other cross cultural research or national studies Using the example of one particular survey the Programme for International Student Assessment PISA 2015 this volume links all theoretical considerations to fully developed questionnaire material that was field trailed and evaluated in questionnaires for students and their parents as well as teachers and principals in their schools The primary purposes of this book are to inform readers about how education effectiveness research and international large scale assessments are already interacting to inform research and policymaking to identify areas where a closer collaboration of both fields or input from other areas could further improve this work to provide sound theoretical frameworks for future work in both fields and finally to relate these theoretical debates to currently available and evaluated material for future context assessments Collected Papers James Meade V4 Susan Howson,2014-04-23 First Published in 2004 This fourth volume of The Collected Papers of James Meade is different in form and content from the previous three volumes It consists of a single previously unpublished work the diary of Meade s life in the Economic Section of the Cabinet Office which he kept for nearly two years This covers the time where he was appointed to succeed Lionel Robbins as Director of the Section at the end of the Second World War until September 1946 This period encompasses the last few months of the war in Europe and the first year of peace and of a majority Labour government under Prime Minister Clement Attlee

Juvenile Delinquency Christopher A. Mallett,Miyuki Fukushima Tedor,2025-08-12 Juvenile Delinquency Pathways and Prevention Second Edition explores the pivotal roles that family trauma mental health and schools have on juvenile delinquency while examining opportunities for prevention and intervention Authors Christopher A Mallett and Miyuki Fukushima Tedor draw from years of experience working with juvenile offenders to shed light on the nature of delinquency and the diverse pathways to juvenile delinquency while offering evidence based techniques for preventing and rehabilitating youthful offenders Each chapter features interactive and critical thinking sections alongside special interest boxed features

Net Neutrality Compendium Luca Belli, Primavera De Filippi, 2015-11-10 The ways in which Internet traffic is managed have direct consequences on Internet users rights as well as on their capability to compete on a level playing field Network neutrality mandates to treat Internet traffic in a non discriminatory fashion in order to maximise end users freedom and safeguard an open Internet This book is the result of a collective work aimed at providing deeper insight into what is network neutrality how does it relates to human rights and free competition and how to properly frame this key issue through sustainable policies and regulations The Net Neutrality Compendium stems from three years of discussions nurtured by the members of the Dynamic Coalition on Network Neutrality DCNN an open and multi stakeholder group established under the aegis of the United Nations Internet Governance Forum IGF

Coalition of the unWilling and unAble John R Deni, 2021-01-12 Why does the United States need European allies and why is it getting more difficult for those allies to partner with Washington in standing up to China pushing back against Russia and pursuing other common interests around the world This book addresses the economic demographic political and military trends that are fundamentally upending the ability and willingness of European allies to work with Washington Brexit and its impact on Britain s economy and its military Germany s seemingly relentless economic and political rise France s continuing economic malaise Italy s aging population and its withdrawal from major overseas operations and Poland s demographic decline and single minded obsession with Russia will combine to make partnership with Washington nearly impossible In short the constellation of allies and partners the United States has relied on since 9 11 will look very different a decade from now How should Washington respond It doesn t hold all the cards but this book offers an array of practical recommendations for American leaders By leveraging these proposals U S policy makers can avoid the worst case scenarios and make the most of limited opportunities

Learning and Reconciliation Through Indigenous Education in Oceania Pangelinan, Perry Jason Camacho, McVey, Troy, 2021-12-10 The mission of higher education in the 21st century must address the reconciliation of student learning and experiences through the lens of indigenous education and frameworks Higher learning institutions throughout the oceanic countries have established frameworks for addressing indigeneity through the infusion of an indigenous perspectives curriculum The incorporation of island indigenous frameworks into their respective curriculums colleges and universities in the oceanic countries has seen positive impact results on student learning leading to the creation of authentic experiences in higher education landscapes Learning and Reconciliation Through Indigenous Education in Oceania discusses ways of promoting active student learning and unique experiences through indigenous scholarship and studies among contemporary college students It seeks to provide an understanding of the essential link between practices for incorporating island indigenous curriculum strategies for effective student learning and course designs which are aligned with frameworks that address indigeneity and that place college teachers in the role of leaders for lifelong learning through
