H.W. Heymann,2013-06-29 Seven years after its publication in Germany this book is now available to English readers In the German speaking countries the publication led to intense controversies on the significance the goals and the future development of mathematics instruction in schools Currently there is much debate in many countries on how to evaluate the findings of such international comparative studies as TIMSS and PISA debate on which consequences should be taken for designing national curricula and on which reforms of mathematics instruction in schools should be initiated I hope that this book might provide substantial suggestions beneficial to resolving these and similar issues for its major concern is twofold first to determine the essential characteristics of general education in schools and secondly on the basis of this to specify the status of mathematics instruction within the framework of general education in schools Due to the fundamental nature of my argument I did not consider it necessary to update the book superficially for the English edition Thus I am presenting the book to the English speaking public in its original form the single exception being that I have omitted the original second chapter since that chapter Bildung und Allgemeinbildung seems to be relevant only to those readers especially interested in German educational debates Most of those readers in turn will belong to the German speaking public The omission of this chapter necessitated a few insignificant alterations in the otherwise unchanged introduction and at the beginning of the present second originally third chapter Rethinking Translators Andrea Musumeci, 2025-03-15 This book introduces a new area of research known as translator's posture With technical pedagogical and sociological dimension posture is valuable to learners researchers educators and practitioners alike The technical dimension aims to invite practitioners and more advanced learners to reflect on their position within translation environments and establish their posture as translators with more ecological awareness The pedagogical framework is grounded in an original conceptual exploration of translation constraints leading to an ecologically inspired perspective on translation affordances The sociological aspect draws on the notion of authorial posture in sociology of literature The book also presents the action research data collection from a translation theory module in a Hong Kong University supporting the integration of postural learning into curricula This book aims to benefit global academic and professional communities in translation studies

Schools as Protection? Bjorn H. Nordtveit, 2016-04-20 In 1900 the Swedish social theorist Ellen Key launched the idea of a Century of the Child Recent media reports from shooting and racial violence in the US to the latest news from ISIS dominated areas provide a darker vision it is certainly not a time for children it is a time during which children s wellbeing is being the cause of worry This book is about schools and protection of children and proposes ways to ensure the minimum standards of safety in schools The issue of protection is not only important in specific conflict settings but also more and more in mainstream schools in the Western context Therefore the book is not focusing on a specific geographic area but analyzing various contexts of adversity including those affected by poverty high incidence of HIV AIDS as well as conflict and post conflict affected areas It also illustrates the effects of such contexts non enrollment of children or early dropout from school various forms of abuse and bullying at home and school increased incidence of child marriage abusive child labor and in some cases the worst forms of child labor The school emerges as an institution that could play a stronger role in protection of children and that also could provide better support in the transition from childhood to work and marriage

Statistics of Earth Science Data Graham J. Borradaile, 2013-11-11 The Goals of Data Collection and Its Statistical Treatment in the Earth Sciences The earth sciences are characterised by loose and complex relationships between variables and the necessity to understand the geographical distribution of observations as well as their frequency distribution Our frequency distributions and the looseness of relationships reflect the complexity and intrinsic natural variation in nature more than measurement error Furthermore earth scientists cannot design experiments according to statistical recommendation because the availability and complexity of data are beyond our control Usually the system we are studying cannot be isolated into discrete independent variables These factors influence the first steps of research how and where to collect specimens or observations Some issues are particularly troublesome and common in earth science but are rarely handled in an undergraduate statistics course These include spatial sampling methods orientation data regionalised variables time series identification of cyclicity and pattern discrimination multivariate systems lurking variables and constant sum data It is remarkable that most earth science students confront these issues without formal training or focused consideration Articles in ITJEMAST @
