Milner Memos Milner Library,1999 Government Publications of ... Great Britain. Her Majesty's Stationery Office,1959 We Could Not Fail Richard Paul,Steven Moss,2015-05-01 The Space Age began just as the struggle for civil rights forced Americans to confront the long and bitter legacy of slavery discrimination and violence against African Americans Presidents John F Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson utilized the space program as an agent for social change using federal equal employment opportunity laws to open workplaces at NASA and NASA contractors to African Americans while creating thousands of research and technology jobs in the Deep South to ameliorate poverty We Could Not Fail tells the inspiring largely unknown story of how shooting for the stars helped to overcome segregation on earth Richard Paul and Steven Moss profile ten pioneer African American space workers whose stories illustrate the role NASA and the space program played in promoting civil rights They recount how these technicians mathematicians engineers and an astronaut candidate surmounted barriers to move in some cases literally from the cotton fields to the launching pad The authors vividly describe what it was like to be the sole African American in a NASA work group and how these brave and determined men also helped to transform Southern society by integrating colleges patenting new inventions holding elective office and reviving and governing defunct towns Adding new names to the roster of civil rights heroes and a new chapter to the story of space exploration We Could Not Fail demonstrates how African Americans broke the color barrier by competing successfully at the highest level of American intellectual and technological achievement Resources in Education ,2000-04

Her Majesty's Stationery Office,1959 Advanced Educational Technologies for Mathematics and Science David L. Ferguson,2013-04-17 This book is the outgrowth of a NATO Advanced Research Workshop held in Milton Keynes United Kingdom in the summer of 1990 The workshop brought together about 30 world leaders in the use of advanced technologies in the teaching of mathematics and science Many of these participants commented that the workshop was one of the more productive and exciting workshops that they had attended It was not uncommon to see participants engaged in informal discussion far into the evenings and early mornings long after formal sessions had ended It is my hope that this book captures the substance and excitement of many of the ideas that were presented at the workshop Indeed the process by which this book has come about has given every opportunity for the best thinking to get reflected here Participants wrote papers prior to the workshop After the workshop participants revised the papers at least once In a few instances three versions of papers were written Some participants could not resist the urge to incorporate descriptions of some of the newer developments in their projects The papers in this book demonstrate how technology is impacting our view of what should be taught what can be taught and how we should go about teaching in the various disciplines As such they offer great insight into the central issues of teaching and learning in a wide range of disciplines and across many grade levels ranging from elementary school through undergraduate college education

Thomas P. Carpenter,James M. Moser,Thomas A. Romberg,2020-08-15 A hallmark of much of the research on children s thinking in the 1970s had been the focus on explicit content domains Much of this research had been represented by an eclectic collection of studies sampled from a variety of disciplines and content areas However in the few years before this publication research in several content domains has begun to coalesce into a coherent body of knowledge Originally published in 1982 the chapters in this work represent one of the first attempts to bring together the perspectives of a variety of different researchers investigating a specific well defined content domain This book presents theoretical views and research findings of a group of international scholars who are investigating the early acquisition of addition and subtraction skills by young children Together the contributors bring a blend of psychology educational psychology and mathematics education to this topic Fields of interest such as information processing artificial intelligence early childhood and classroom teaching and learning are included in this blend Fort Saint George Gazette Madras (India : State),1964
