Global Agriculture and the American Farmer Kimberly Ann Elliott, 2017-06-27 The United States is one of the world's largest producers and exporters of a range of agricultural commodities and the largest provider of foreign assistance so U S policies have big effects on global food security and other global public goods linked to agriculture On the positive side of the ledger President Obama created the Feed the Future aid initiative to promote agricultural development in poorer countries as a tool to achieve the global goals of ending hunger and extreme poverty which are mostly rural But that generosity is undercut by U S support for farmers that distorts global markets and ignores negative spillovers for the rest of the world In this book Elliott focuses on three policy areas that are particularly damaging for developing countries traditional agricultural subsidy and trade policies that support the incomes of American farmers at the expense of farmers elsewhere the biofuels mandate which in its current form increases market volatility while doing little if anything to mitigate climate change and weak regulation of antibiotic use in livestock which contributes to the global spread of drug resistant super bugs While noting that broad reforms are needed to fix these problems Elliott also identifies practical steps that U S policymakers could take in the relatively short run to improve farm policies for American taxpayers and consumers as well as for the poor and vulnerable in developing countries

Environmental Water Markets and Regulation Katherine Owens, 2016-11-18 River systems around the world are degraded and are being used unsustainably Meeting this challenge requires the development of flexible regimes that have the potential to meet essential consumptive needs while restoring environmental flows This book focuses on how water trading frameworks can be repurposed for environmental water recovery and aims to conceptualise the most appropriate role for law in supporting recovery through these frameworks The author presents a comprehensive study of the legal frameworks in four jurisdictions the States of Oregon and Colorado in the western United States the province of Alberta in Canada and the Murray Darling Basin in Australia Basin State of New South Wales A close comparative analysis of these four jurisdictions reveals a variety of distinctive regulatory arrangements and collaborations between public and private actors In all cases the law has been deployed to steer and coordinate these water governance activities The book argues that each regime is based on a particular regulatory strategy with different conceptions of the appropriate roles for and relationships between various actors and institutions Legal frameworks do not have the capacity to rationalise and provide an overarching and absolute solution to the complex environmental and governance issues that arise in the context of environmental water transactions Rather the role of law in this context needs to be reconceptualised within the paradigm of regulatory capitalism as establishing and maintaining the limits within which regulatory participants can operate innovate and collaborate

Agricultural Development and Food Security in Africa Renu Modi,Fantu Cheru,2013-08-08 The subject of food security and land issues in Africa has become one of increased importance and contention over recent years In particular the focus has shifted to the role new global South donors especially India China and Brazil are playing in shaping African agriculture through their increased involvement and investment in the continent Approaching the topic through the framework of South South co operation this highly original volume presents a critical analysis of the ways in which Chinese Indian and Brazilian engagements in African agriculture are structured and implemented Do these investments have the potential to create new opportunities to improve local living standards transfer new technology and knowhow to African producers and reverse the persistent productivity decline in African agriculture Or will they simply aggravate the problem of food insecurity by accelerating the process of land alienation and displacement of local people from their land Topical and comprehensive Agricultural Development and Food Security in Africa offers fresh insight into a set of relationships that will shape both Africa and the world over the coming decades

Building Sustainable Agriculture for Food Security in the Euro-Mediterranean Area

Maria Cristina Paciello, 2015-06-19 Sustainable agriculture and food security are of particular concern for the countries of the Middle East and North Africa MENA region and represent one of the biggest challenges facing the area. As a consequence of the region's heavy reliance on food imports, the sharp increase in food prices since 2007 and the consequent world food crisis has had macro-economic problems, inflation, trade deficits, fiscal pressure, increased poverty and political instability. This challenge, coupled with the consequences of environmental degradation, water scarcity, urbanization and climate stress, call for the urgent development of sustainable agriculture. This has mostly been ignored in Euro-Mediterranean relations due to strong opposition from the EU. However, academics and policymakers have increasingly acknowledged that agriculture that needs to be placed at the core of Euro-Mediterranean regional cooperation. Given the sensitiveness and strategic importance of agriculture for both shores of the Mediterranean, the IAI and the OCP Policy Center jointly organized a two-day conference in Rabat on November 20-21, 2014, to discuss food security and agriculture challenges in the framework of Euro-Mediterranean relations. The present volume collects the updated and revised versions of the twelve papers that were discussed in that meeting.
