Exploring philosophy through detailed argument analyses of texts by philosophers from Plato to Strawson using a novel and transparent method of analysis. The best way to introduce students to philosophy and philosophical discourse is to have them read and wrestle with original sources. This textbook explores philosophy through detailed argument analyses of texts by philosophers from Plato to Strawson. It presents a novel and transparent method of analysis that will teach students not only how to understand and evaluate philosophers' arguments but also how to construct such arguments themselves. Students will learn to read a text and discover what the philosopher thinks, why the philosopher thinks it, and whether the supporting argument is good. Students learn argument analysis through argument diagrams with color coding of the argument's various elements: conclusion, claims, and indicator phrases. An online mini course in argument diagramming and argument diagramming software are both freely available online. Each chapter ends with exercises and reading questions. After a general introduction to philosophy and logic and an explanation of argument analysis, the book presents selections from primary sources arranged by topics that correspond to contemporary debates with detailed analysis and evaluation. These topics include philosophy of religion, epistemology, theory of mind, free will, and determinism, and ethics. Authors include Aristotle, Aquinas, Descartes, Hume, Kant, Ryle, Fodor, Dennett, Searle, and others. What Is the Argument? not only introduces students to great philosophical thinkers; it also teaches them the essential skill of critical thinking. Introduction to Text Mining Gabe Ignatow, Rada Mihalcea, 2017-09-22 Students in social science courses communicate, socialize, shop, learn and work online. When they are asked to collect data for course projects, they are often drawn to social media platforms and other online sources of textual data. There are many software packages and programming languages available to help students collect data online and there are many texts designed to help with different forms of online research, from surveys to ethnographic interviews. But there is no textbook available that teaches students how to construct a viable research project based on online sources of textual data, such as newspaper archives, site user comment archives, digitized historical documents or social media user comment archives. Gabe Ignatow and Rada F. Mihalcea's new text, An Introduction to Text Mining, will be a starting point for undergraduates and first-year graduate students interested in collecting and analyzing textual data from online sources and will cover the most critical issues that students must take into consideration at all stages of their research projects, including ethical and philosophical issues, issues related to research design, web scraping and crawling, strategic data selection, data sampling, use of specific text analysis methods, and report writing. Methodological Challenges and New Approaches to Research in International Development L.
