Good S About History:

Goods, Power, History Arnold J. Bauer, 2001-04-30 Why do we acquire the things we do Behind this apparently ingenuous question are several answers some straightforward and others more interesting To feed ourselves might be the first response for we can easily see that we expend much energy in the quest for food Clothing and shelter as well would seem to constitute our basic needs Yet we quickly see that even in the Garden of Eden people want more than they need This simple impulse has created the ever mounting abundance we call progress and nearly all of the subsequent trouble on our planet Four main interwoven themes run through this exploration of material culture and consumption in Latin America over the past five centuries supply and demand the relationships between consumption and identity the importance of ritual both ancient and modern in what we buy and the relationship between colonial and post colonial power in consumption How Did The Ancient African Empires Get Their Goods? History Books Grade 3 | Children's History Books Baby Professor, 2017-12-01 In the ancient times not much is known about the world Civilizations were contained to their parts of the world but not the ancient African empires The ancient Africans have their own means of getting and exchanging goods Learning about the processes dominant in ancient Africa will help boost your understanding of human interaction regardless of the reason Go ahead and grab a copy now The Oxford Handbook of the History of Phenomenology Dan Zahavi, 2018-06-04 This Oxford Handbook offers a broad critical survey of the development of phenomenology one of the main streams of philosophy since the nineteenth century It comprises thirty seven specially written chapters by leading figures in the field which highlight historical influences connections and developments and offer a better comprehension and assessment of the continuity as well as diversity of the phenomenological tradition The handbook is divided into three distinct parts The first part addresses the way phenomenology has been influenced by earlier periods or figures in the history of philosophy The second part contains chapters targeting prominent phenomenologists How was their work affected by earlier figures how did their own views change over time and what kind of influence did they exert on subsequent thinkers The contributions in the third part trace various core topics such as subjectivity intersubjectivity embodiment spatiality imagination etc in the work of different phenomenologists in order to explore how the notions were transformed enriched and expanded up through the century This volume will be a source of insight for philosophers students of philosophy and for people working in other disciplines of the humanities social sciences and sciences who are interested in the phenomenological tradition It is an authoritative guide to how phenomenology started how it developed and where it is heading Imitation, Counterfeiting and the Quality of Goods in Modern Asian History Kazuko Furuta, Linda Grove, 2017-10-12 This book focuses on the production of low quality goods the rise of markets for imitations and shoddy goods and dishonest trading practices which developed along with the expansion of global trade in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries in East Asia Fake imitation counterfeit and adulterated goods have long plagued domestic and international trade While we are all familiar with contemporary attempts to control the manufacture and sales of such goods economic historians have given the subject little attention despite the fact that the growth of international trade and the lengthening of commodity chains played a major role in the spread of such practices The problem is approached in several ways Part I of the book examines the ways in which the asymmetry of product quality information was reduced and mechanisms were developed to bring greater order in the markets using case studies on cotton fiber silk pongee cotton cloth fertilizer and tea Part II of the book focuses on problems associated with imported everyday use items which are referred to here as small things and the role played by imitations of such everyday goods as soap matches glass bottles and toys in the development of the modern economies of Japan China and Taiwan The project brings together the work of an international team of scholars who offer important historical perspectives on these issues exploring the ways in which new institutions were created that continue to play a role in contemporary global economic activities
