Innovative Materials for Construction Mariaenrica Frigione, José Barroso de Aguiar, 2021-05-05 Most of the typical materials employed in today's constructions present limitations especially concerning their durability in either common or severe environmental conditions and their impact on the environment In response to these issues academic and industrial efforts around the world have been devoted to developing new smart materials that can provide efficient alternatives improve the energy efficiency of buildings or can upgrade repair or protect existing infrastructures Different and wide technological innovations are therefore quickly fostering advancements in the field of construction materials A new generation of materials bricks cement coatings concrete FRP glass masonry mortars nano materials PCM polymers steel wood etc is gaining a prominent position in modern building technology since they can overcome various limits and flaws of conventional materials employed in constructions without neglecting the smart applications of pioneering materials in ancient constructions and historic buildings Even though the adoption of innovative materials in the construction field has been a successful route in achieving enhanced performance or even new and unexpected characteristics some issues have not been completely solved On top of them the cost performance ratio of novel solutions since their introduction must be convenient without compromising quality Other concerns are related to their sustainability with eco friendly options possibly exploiting recycled materials or by products from other productions being the most desirable solution Finally the use of materials or systems that are unconventional in this field raises the need to update or develop new specifications and standards This special issue aims at providing a platform for discussing open issues challenges and achievements related to innovative materials proposed for the construction industry

Informed is best Amy Brown,2019 From the moment you share the news that you are pregnant or have a new baby it feels like everyone becomes an expert Did you see that headline Did you hear that story on TV Have you heard the latest about what they say is best In a world overflowing with information telling you what is best for you and your baby making decisions can feel overwhelming Who do you trust Who is telling the truth And how do you know if what they are saying is right for you How By becoming your own expert in sorting the media spin and politics from the actual facts and data This isn't a book that is going to tell you which decisions to make or that there is ever one right answer It is not going to tell you that the same thing is always best for everyone Instead this is a guide to help you evaluate information and evidence to decide what is right for you your body and your baby In three main parts it will firstly open your eyes to how information is shared in the media and how this can affect our thinking and decision making Next it will help you spot who is funding leading and promoting research and how this can affect the content of what is shared Finally it will talk you through reading understanding and evaluating evidence for yourself across topics in pregnancy birth and caring for babies You'll learn how to spot weaknesses in methods used how to determine the real risk for you and your baby and how wider context and other factors can influence what research means for you Information is power Making your own decisions that are right for you is empowering

Informed is best Teaching for Learning and Learning for Teaching Christopher Klopfer,Steve Drew,2015-10-30 Teaching for Learning and Learning for Teaching focuses on the emerging global governmental and institutional agenda about higher education teaching quality and the role that peer review can play in supporting improvements in teaching and student outcomes This agenda is a pervasive element of the further development of higher education internationally through activities of governments global agencies institutions of higher education discrete disciplines and individual teachers Many universities have adopted student evaluations as a mechanism to appraise the quality of teaching These evaluations can be understood as providing a customer centric portrait of quality and when used as the sole arbiter of teaching performance they do not instil confidence in the system of evaluation by academic teaching staff Providing peer perspectives as counterpoint whether in a developmental or summative form goes some way to alleviating this imbalance and is the impetus for the resurgence of interest in peer review and observation of teaching This book seeks to recognise cases of peer review of teaching in Higher Education to affirm best practices and identify areas that require improvement in establishing local national and international benchmarks of teaching quality
