New Perspectives in Basin Analysis Karen L. Kleinspehn, Chris Paola, 2012-12-06 In the extensive field of earth sciences with its many subdisciplines the transfer of knowledge is primarily established via personal communication during meetings by reading journal articles or by consulting books Because more information is available than can be assimilated it is necessary for the individual to search selectively Books take more time from the inception of an idea until publication than any of the other means of communication mentioned As a consequence their function is somewhat different Many good books are a compilation of up to date knowledge and serve as reference or instruction manuals Some books are a collection of previously published papers dealing with a certain topic while others may basically provide large sets of data or examples The Frontiers in Sedimentary Geology series was established both for students and practicing earth scientists who wish to either stay abreast of the most recent ideas or developments or to become familiar with an important topic in the field of sedimentary geology The series attempts to deal with subjects that are in the forefront of both scientific and economic interest The treatment of a subject in an individual volume should be a combination of topical regional and interdisciplinary approaches Although these three terms can be defined separately in reality they should flow into each other A topical treatment should relate to a major category of sedimentary geology Questions and Replies of the National Assembly South Africa.
