Bypass construction well underway

BY CAROL BROOKS

It's begun. Motorists have noticed that construction of the Jamestown Bypass is underway, and has been for several months, most noticeably along Dillon, Oakdale and Victory roads. Now clearing is taking place on Victory Road where the 3.5-mile bypass will intersect with Jamestown Parkway.

The Greensboro, or B, segment of project E-2412. It will join E-747 Hwy. 311 near the Five Points area in High Point. The estimated cost is over $48 million.

The most dramatic section is along Dillon Road. Traveling north, the cleared section shows a decidedly downhill slope to the Riverwalk Townhomes.

Riverwalk owners have had several meetings with the DOT because the bypass will directly impact their community, with a planned traffic light at Dillon Road very close to the entrances to both the townhomes and condominiums, among other changes. At the most recent meeting, in March, major concerns were the loss of the new road to their homes, home values, compensation for possible damage - construction noise and dirt, loss of common areas, extra traffic and dif-

Rain does not deter guests at Holiday Tour of Homes

The fifth annual Holiday Tour of Homes, sponsored by Sedgfield Colony Garden Club, proved to be a success despite the fact it was delayed a week by 12-plus inches of snow and hindered on the day of the tour by rain. Torrential rain Dec. 20 may have damped bodies, but not the spirit of the occasion. As guests traveled from one home to another, they were warmed by the festive holiday decorations, cheery fires in fireplaces and the smiling faces of garden club members.

Homes in the tour included those of Mr. and Mrs. Donna Coen and Mr. and Mrs. Todd Gillenwater.

"We know Sedgfield has some older homes and wanted to see if we could get ideas for renovations," said Carolyn Swain, who came

In spite of dreary weather on the day of the Sedgfield Colony Garden Club's Holiday Tour of Homes, the smiling faces of club members and beautifully decorated homes made this tour a happy occasion. What color is your underwear? If you have on red or gold/yellow undies, you can join the residents of Central and South America in a special celebration on New Year's Eve. Red symbolizes love in the new year and yellow or gold is thought to bring money to the wearer. Green undies signify health and well-being while your eighties bring prosperity and success.

That money might be used in Denmark, gray hair in the United States and plates, following the Danes' custom of shattering such items against the doors of their friends and families on New Year's Eve. This is supposed to banish bad spirits. A similar custom in Ireland isn't as damaging because the Irish hit the walls in their homes with bread.

The color of your undies can indicate your financial state in the new year in South and Central America.

Some South Africans also like to get rid of possessions on New Year's as they throw old furniture out of the window.

Similar to baking the baby (small doll) into a King Cake during Mardi Gras, Bolivians and Greeks bake coins into cakes and other sweets. Whoever finds the coin has good luck in the upcoming year.

Breaking plates are a New Year's tradition in Denmark.

The Greeks have an odd custom. In this country, an onion is hung on the front door of homes, symbolizing rebirth. To continue the custom, children wake on the first day of the new year as their parents tap them on the head with the onion.

This next custom would be right at home on Halloween: sleeping in the cemetery on New Year's Eve. This practice goes on in Chile.

Medications disposal drop box now at local sheriff's office

Guilford County is committed to reducing the harm created by opioid overdoses, including opioid-related deaths. Officials and emergency medical services say there were over 700 opioid overdoses reversed and 100 verified opioid deaths in Guilford County during 2017. Statistics are not yet available for this year 2018.

Jamestown Mayor Lynn Montgomery attended a program in September about the state of the opioid crisis in North Carolina. One of the speakers, Jim Albright, director of Guilford County Emergency Services, discussed the collection of old, unused medications and Montgomery's first reaction was to find out if there was a place in Jamestown where drugs could be taken when no longer needed.

Although this area sponsored an annual collection, according to Capt. David Pruitt of the District III Sheriff's Office, the Jamestown office had no permanent collection site like the other two districts. Pruitt determined to learn why.

"The biggest program was the small lobby at the Jamestown office that did not allow room for a collection box. 'We decided to make a place for a box,' Pruitt said. 'As of December, a box has been bolted into place in another part of the office and a sign telling what not to include' installed above it. We do not take the drugs from people, but watch them place what they bring into the box.'

"To have a place to get rid of drugs when they are no longer needed is important," he added. "Most people do not lock up their medicines and anyone, including kids, neighbors or guests could get to them. Access can be the start of addiction."
