

MARKER CONTROL

The markers are automatically lowered or raised when the planter is lowered or raised.

However, the position of the marker control handle determines which marker will be released when the planter is lowered.

To lower the left-hand marker, turn the control handle to the right. To lower the right-hand marker, turn the control handle to the left.

DEPTH OF FURROW AND PLANTING

Use the hydraulic remote cylinder to gauge the depth of the furrow. When the desired depth is reached, position the stop on the cylinder to maintain this depth.

The depth of planting is determined by the position of the disk furrow openers on the shanks.

Lowering the disk furrow openers on the shanks will give shallower planting, and raising them will give deeper planting. Remove bolt "A," to make this adjustment. After raising or lowering the disk furrow openers, replace the bolt in the new position and tighten securely.

If the disk furrow openers are moved up or down on the shanks, it will be necessary to reposition the stop on the hydraulic remote cylinder to maintain the desired furrow depth.

NOTE: When a dry fertilizer attachment is used, the delivery tube holders on the press wheel frames must be turned down when the disk furrow openers are set low on the shank and turned up when the disk furrow openers are set high on the shank.
