- a. Why does the addition of more or fewer independent variables produce different results? Show an example using the regression model.
- b. In the regression you just estimated, what is the t -statistic for the coefficient of β_1 ? Is it statistically significant? Explain in your own words what the t -statistic tells you about the coefficient of β_1 . What would happen to the t -statistic if you changed the value of β_1 to zero or to a larger value?
- c. In the standardizing process, we convert the data about x to mean zero and $s_x = 1$ and the data about y to mean zero and $s_y = 1$. What does this imply for the t -statistic? Will you have the same t -statistic for the coefficient of β_1 if you standardize the data?
- d. The model is overfitted if a particular variable has a statistically significant coefficient despite the variable's insignificance in a regression model without that variable.
