A Psychology for People of God E. Rae Harcum, 2012-04-19 This book combats the anti religious sentiment of some psychologists It argues that Christians do not have to give up their religious faith to keep the contributions of science A science compatible with religion accepts that human beings have freedom of will to select behaviors and that all methods of studying human behavior are acceptable Both of these premises are accepted by a modern view of science which recognizes its inherent subjectivity E Rae Harcum explicitly asserts the important role of spirituality in psychology especially in psychotherapy The book confronts the relation between the human body and its non material parts the mind and spirit and provides a way of looking at these metaphysical issues A Psychology for People of God promotes the need of the Christian to love and to care for his or her fellows After all fitness for survival entails the willingness to serve

Principles of Psychology in Religious Context E. Rae Harcum, 2012-12-07 This book asserts that the better one understands the causes of behavior the better one can apply that knowledge to produce a better world It describes the mechanisms that cause human behavior such as freedom of will in a manner consistent with religious beliefs It also asserts that all avenues for studying human behavior like intuition and prayer are acceptable and necessary Thus when studying the agent of human action we must rely on faith logic and intuition in addition to the full use of empirical science Principles of Psychology for People of God begins with a description of the nervous system and continues with chapters on development perception internal states learning memory and the ultimate selection of behaviors Nevertheless it steadfastly emphasizes that behavior is not produced by physical mechanisms alone but also by a non material spirit that can transcend some inheritances and environments

Principles of Noology Seng-Beng Ho, 2016-06-29 The idea of this book is to establish a new scientific discipline noology under which a set of fundamental principles are proposed for the characterization of both naturally occurring and artificial intelligent systems The methodology adopted in Principles of Noology for the characterization of intelligent systems or noological systems is a computational one much like that of AI Many AI devices such as predicate logic representations search mechanisms heuristics and computational learning mechanisms are employed but they are recast in a totally new framework for the characterization of noological systems The computational approach in this book provides a quantitative and high resolution understanding of noological processes and at the same time the principles and methodologies formulated are directly implementable in AI systems In contrast to traditional AI that ignores motivational and affective processes under the paradigm of noology motivational and affective processes are central to the functioning of noological systems and their roles in noological processes are elucidated in detailed computational terms In addition a number of novel representational and learning mechanisms are proposed and ample examples and computer simulations are provided to show their applications These include rapid effective causal learning a novel learning mechanism that allows an AI noological system to learn causality with a small number of training instances learning of scripts that enables knowledge chunking and rapid problem solving and learning of heuristics that further accelerates problem solving Semantic grounding allows an AI noological system to truly understand the meaning of the knowledge it encodes This issue is extensively explored This is a highly informative book providing novel and deep insights into intelligent systems which is particularly relevant to both researchers and students of AI and the cognitive sciences
