Environmental Problems in an Urbanizing World Jorge E. Hardoy, Diana Mitlin, David Satterthwaite, 2013-11-05 New edition of Environmental Problems in Third World Cities Cities in Africa Asia and Latin America contain some of the world's most life and health threatening human environments Environment related diseases and injuries cause millions of preventable deaths each year In many squatter settlements children are 40 to 50 times more likely to die before the age of five than they would be in Europe or North America and most such deaths are environment related Many cities also cause serious environmental degradation to their surroundings and increasingly contribute to global warming This updated and much expanded edition of the classic Environmental Problems in Third World Cities describes environmental problems and their effect on human health local ecosystems and global cycles It points to the political causes that underpin many of these problems including ineffective unaccountable governments and aid agencies reluctance to work with the urban poor It also highlights innovative solutions such as High quality low cost homes and neighbourhoods developed by urban poor groups working with local non governmental organizations Local Agenda 21s developed by municipal governments in partnership with community organizations In their analysis the authors show that cities can meet sustainable development goals There are practical affordable solutions to their environmental problems but most of these depend on more competent and accountable city governments and on more support for low income households and their organizations The book also outlines the changes needed international aid agencies to support this PRAISE FOR THE FIRST EDITION It's rare to encounter a work as authoritative and accessible as this It is a mine of useful information from cities in every corner of the Third World which does not shy away from the immensity of the problems but says as much about the solutions to them as about the problems themselves Jonathon Porritt Well written and very accessible The Geographical Journal Of value to students teachers practitioners policy makers and aid agencies Third World Planning Review A valuable resource for understanding the underlying problems this book offers practical alternatives Cities International

The Power of

Cities in International Relations Simon Curtis, 2014-04-16 Cities have become increasingly important to global politics but have largely occupied a peripheral place in the academic study of International Relations IR This is a notable oversight for the discipline although one which may be explained by IR's traditional state centrism the subjugation of the city to the demands of the territorial state in the modern period and a lack of conceptual and analytical frameworks that can allow scholars to include the impact of cities within their work Presenting case specific scholarship from leading experts in the field each contribution guides the reader through the changing nature of cities in the international system and their increasing prominence in global governance outcomes The book features case studies on the financial power of cities city action in the security domain collaboration of cities in coping with environmental problems transnational urban regions and mayors as international actors to illustrate if the relationship between the city and the state has changed in profound ways and how cities are empowered by structural changes in world politics The multidisciplinary and global focus in The Power of Cities in International Relations sheds much needed light on the significance of the reemergence of cities from the long shadow of the nation state Only by examining the mechanisms that have empowered cities in the last few decades can we understand their new functions and capabilities in global politics

New Urban Spaces Neil Brenner, 2019-05-24 The urban condition is today being radically transformed Urban restructuring is accelerating new urban spaces are being consolidated and new forms of urbanization are crystallizing In New Urban Spaces Neil Brenner argues that understanding these mutations of urban life requires not only concrete research but new theories of urbanization To this end Brenner proposes an approach that breaks with inherited conceptions of the urban as a bounded settlement unit the city or the metropolis and explores the multiscalar constitution and periodic rescaling of the capitalist urban fabric Drawing on critical geopolitical economy and spatialized approaches to state theory Brenner offers a paradigmatic account of how rescaling processes are transforming inherited formations of urban space and their variegated consequences for emergent patterns and pathways of urbanization The book also advances an understanding of critical urban theory as radically revisable key urban concepts must be continually reinvented in relation to the relentlessly mutating worlds of urbanization they aspire to illuminate
