Globalization Textbook Grade 10:

Globalization, International Education Policy and Local Policy Formation Carolyn A. Brown, 2014-10-13 This edited volume focuses on how international education policy set by international policymakers and donors influences local education policy in developing countries. The book's primary purpose is to give voice to scholars from developing countries and regions around the world by inviting them to explore how the international policy invariably linked to international aid influences education policy formation and implementation in their country or region and how this influence does or does not meet the local cultural, social, economic and political needs. A relatively recent and small body of research and commentary supports a discourse that questions how well international education policy mandates such as Education For All serve the needs of developing countries. The intent of this book is to advance this discourse by giving voice to local scholars who observe and study the donor process. The book will be divided into two sections: the first section will set the stage for the discussions in the second section by providing theoretical and historical context for international education policy. As a framework for understanding the book, it adopts the position that international policy does not have either the ability or the intent to serve the widely diverse needs of development around the world. International education policy has been formed historically by wealthy nations and agencies dominated by Western theoretical paradigms. In recent years, donor countries have made an effort to collaborate with developing countries in developing international education policy goals; however, this collaboration has been limited. Following establishment of the context of international education policy, section II of the book provides a forum for scholars from around the world to openly discuss and critique the impact of international policy on education in their country or region.

Globalization and Living Together D.B. Rao, 2005 Education is gearing towards preparing individuals to live in together since ancient times. However, the notion of Learning to Live Together is clearly shaped only very recently by the UNESCO's International Commission on Education for the Twenty-first Century. The Commission emphasised that education for the 21st century based on four pillars: namely Learning to know, Learning to do, Learning to be, and Learning to live together. The first three pillars are essential for the sound development of persons, communities or individual nations, but the fourth pillar, learning to live together, is of a different, more global nature. Its omission may result in the annihilation of all other educational, cultural, health and developmental efforts through war, terrorism, deterioration of resources, pandemics, etc.

Knowledge, Differences and Identity in the Time of Globalization James Kusch,2011-05-25
The discourse of globalization that pertains to higher education reform is troubling The first troubling thing about much of the discourse that concerns globalization is that it most often does not name a human subject We propose that globalization discourse should be written for and directed towards human beings or students The second troubling thing about the discourse of globalization is the way that it antagonizes and marginalizes who that missing subject might be The two relationships form the themes of this book The nature and logic of discourse about globalization expresses a social rationality that serves as a precondition to constructing relevant meanings The way that we conceive or obscure the subject produces a condition or position where those whom are the subject of the discourse must indeed await its effects who is the pertinent policy about Or for whom is policy intended Much policy discourse holds consequences for the way in which outcomes of policies are understood or explained in the social milieu where policies are enacted The same discourse constructs and deconstructs identities and as we will see the language of reform in fact antagonizes and marginalizes students by virtue of a particular vagueness in the discourse and symbols of the discourse What is at issue in the discourse of globalization is the character and logic of collective identities How then to relate students to the cluster of features that comprise globalization
