

Glory Movie Questions

1. How does the attitude of Colonel Robert Gould Shaw toward African-Americans change and why?

Colonel Shaw's attitude toward African-Americans changes over the course of the movie. At first, he is a white supremacist who believes that African-Americans are inferior and should not be allowed to fight in the military. However, as he spends more time with the 54th Massachusetts Infantry, he begins to see them as individuals and not just as a race. This change in attitude is what allows him to lead the regiment into battle.

2. What differences exist among the black soldiers who make up the 54th Massachusetts Infantry? What does this tell you about the different experiences of blacks in 19th-century America? What about their regions of origin, former status (enslaved), and educational background?

The 54th Massachusetts Infantry was a regiment of African-American soldiers who fought in the American Civil War. The regiment was made up of men from different parts of the country, including the North and South. Some of the men were former slaves, while others were free men. The regiment was led by Colonel Robert Gould Shaw, a white man who believed in the equality of all people.

3. What attitudes did white soldiers have about the 54th? Did these attitudes change and why?

At first, the white soldiers in the 54th were skeptical of the African-American soldiers. They thought they were not capable of fighting in the military. However, as they spent more time with the 54th, they began to see them as brave and capable soldiers. This change in attitude was what allowed the 54th to become a respected fighting force.

4. Were blacks treated equally to whites in the Union army? Explain.

No, blacks were not treated equally to whites in the Union army. They were paid less than whites and were often given the most dangerous jobs. However, they were also given the same training and equipment as whites. This was a step forward, but it was not equality.

5. What is significant about Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse to surrender?

Colonel Shaw's decision to refuse to surrender was significant because it showed that African-American soldiers were capable of fighting in the military. It also showed that white soldiers were capable of fighting alongside African-American soldiers.

6. Did that incident end as you expected? What feelings or thoughts come over you last night?

The incident ended as I expected. The 54th was killed to a man. This was a tragedy, but it was also a victory. It showed that African-American soldiers were capable of fighting in the military. It also showed that white soldiers were capable of fighting alongside African-American soldiers. This was a step forward, but it was not equality.
