Bangladesh International Monetary Fund. Asia and Pacific Dept, 2017-06-08 This 2017 Article IV Consultation highlights steady monetary policy management and fiscal discipline in Bangladesh which have supported macroeconomic stability allowing the economy to benefit from favorable external demand, high remittances and low commodity prices. The result has been strong output growth, falling inflation, moderate public debt and a rebuilding of external resilience. In fiscal year 2017 output growth is expected to remain close to 7 percent. Over the medium term maintaining output growth of about 7 percent a year would require increased public and private investment as well as reforms to support capital market development and improved investment efficiency.
