Building Cultures and Climates for Effective Human Services Anthony L. Hemmelgarn, Charles Glisson, 2018-07-13 It is widely acknowledged that many healthcare behavioral health and social service organizations provide less than optimal services and that the challenge of improving services depends on successfully changing organizational culture and climate However there are almost no organizational level strategies that have been tested with randomized controlled trials Building Cultures and Climates for Effective Human Services addresses the need for evidence based organizational strategies for improving human service quality and outcomes by uniquely describing the authors own case examples nationwide studies and randomized controlled trials to explain how organizational culture and climate can be assessed and changed The two authors use their decades of research and practice experience in assessing and changing human service organizations to explain how organizations can improve the services they provide using the authors ARC model which effectively removes service barriers and supports the implementation of evidence based practices and other innovations The book also blends case examples with research from nationwide studies regional experiments and randomized controlled trials to explain the ARC model of organizational effectiveness and how it works to improve services It provides a balance between theory empirical research and actual case examples to help researchers organizational consultants administrators and service providers gain a practical understanding of how culture and climate affect services and how they can be improved Furthermore the text describes the three ARC strategies each composed of multiple elements to 1 embed key organizational principles 2 implement core organizational component tools and 3 apply mental models to alter shared reasoning and beliefs that affect success No other organizational level strategies for improving services have been so well documented and tested

Intergenerational Programs Sally Newman, 2014-06-03 First published in 1997 This work describes the relationship between intergenerational practice and theory by combining details about current programmes with developmental and societal information. It presents the components for intergenerational programs that impact on the field's history, current status, and future. The book introduces the basic theoretical information for this human service initiative.

Social Work and Human Services Responsibilities in a Time of Climate Change Amanda Howard, Margot Rawsthorne, Pam Joseph, Mareese Terare, Dara Sampson, Meaghan Katrak Harris, 2022-11-15. This book provides an accessible research informed text for students, social workers, and other social service workers and community development workers focused on practically linking climate change to social justice. The book is designed for those who want to embed an understanding of climate change and its social justice impacts in their everyday practice. Those keen to explore the explicit but also often invisible ways we see injustice playing out and exacerbated by climate change. Those interested in embarking on research and action which addresses climate change in an inclusive, creative, and fair way. Utilising existing and current research with organisations, government, and communities, it examines key themes and contexts where work has been done and where more work is needed to design and implement inclusive and just action on climate change. With a core position revolving around the idea and practice of justice for earth and everything that lives here, it draws on First Nations worldviews, critical analysis, community led approaches, and complexity theory to outline some practical ways to adapt to and mitigate the impacts of climate change as well as a strategy to reshape our life and work for the longer term. It will be required reading for all scholars, students, and professionals of social work social welfare community development international development community health and environmental and community education     Journal of Human Services Abstracts ,1978     Facilitating Rapid Process Improvement Workshops Sheila O'Brien,2021-05-27 This is a self study guide for facilitators of rapid process improvement workshops that helps anyone who feels like they aren't truly gaining the full results of improvement initiatives and kaizen events They know they can do better but don't know how The author an experienced facilitator in government and nonprofits speaks to the facilitator through coaching notes and actual workshop documents and techniques so the reader can fully understand how greater results are achieved This guide takes the reader through a step by step path of a newly created workshop agenda The author has parsed the workshop path into more manageable parts easier for both the facilitator and the team These parts split the improvement work into two sections removing the unnecessary and smoothing out the flow Smoothing out the flow is divided further into When the work is coming in When the product person is going through the process How the work is performed In addition the author includes newly created tools and training content For example a data gathering table points the facilitator to what data need to be collected when Training for the team includes making sure they understand the structure of a process as well as to instruct them and define how a Lean process actually functions This distinction is important because all improvements are not necessarily Lean improvements Several bodies of knowledge are incorporated into this guide not only Lean and Six Sigma but internal auditing organizational development and statistics Essentially this guide includes tips nuances and original tools that are missing from the traditional training of facilitators of kaizen events It provides enough information for the facilitator to think in a creative way     Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations for Fiscal Year 1994 United States.
