Namibia Government Circular:

Namibia's Red Line G. Miescher, 2012-06-18 Based on archival sources and oral history this book reconstructs a border building process in Namibia that spanned more than sixty years The process commenced with the establishment of a temporary veterinary defence line against rinderpest by the German colonial authorities in the late nineteenth century and ended with the construction of a continuous two metre high fence by the South African colonial government sixty years later This 1250 kilometre fence divides northern from central Namibia even today The book combines a macro and a micro perspective and differentiates between cartographic and physical reality The analysis explores both the colonial state's agency with regard to veterinary and settlement policies and the strategies of Africans and Europeans living close to the border The analysis also includes the varying perceptions of individuals and populations who lived further north and south of the border and describes their experiences crossing the border as migrant workers African traders European settlers and colonial officials The Red Line's history is understood as a gradual process of segregating livestock and people and of constructing dichotomies of modern and traditional healthy and sick European and African Timor-Leste William Binchy,2009 Timor Leste has had a troubled history and faces an uncertain future Having experienced colonization for centuries followed by the Indonesian occupation with all its abuses of human rights Timor Leste emerged as an independent state based on the rule of law and on respect for human rights The last few years have shown that no society is simple and that the complex influences of the past continue to shape political social and cultural realities This book examines the contemporary challenges for justice and human rights in the shadow of the past It approaches the task from a broad interdisciplinary perspective conscious of the need to integrate insights not only of scholars immersed in human rights international criminal justice and customary law but of others whose backgrounds are in international relations history anthropology demography sociology geography and ecology Explanation [for 1:250,000 Geological Map Series of South Africa and Namibia]. Geological Survey (South Africa),1910 Namibia's Children Michaela Fink,Reimer Gronemeyer,2021-04-16 Many children in Namibia find themselves facing a social crisis They have been abandoned or abused are malnourished homeless or live in shacks that barely provide any protection However amidst these disastrous living conditions children have developed remarkable survival skills and come up with equally clever and disillusioned analyses of their situation For three years Michaela Fink and Reimer Gronemeyer conducted interviews in Namibia with women who take care of vulnerable children The book gives these children a voice in interviews and essays

The Human Factor in Governance W. McCourt, 2006-10-06 This book explores the ways governments manage public employees in developing countries and how this in turn impacts on the success of national development and governance strategies It presents seven in depth case studies from developing countries in Africa and Asia and proposes ways forward for Human Resource Management in developing countries The Servants of Empire K. Molly O'Donnell, 2022-12-09

Capturing the history of thousands of German women recruited to colonize Southwest Africa between the 1890s and 1940s The Servants of Empire engages a radical nationalist history of German efforts to prevent interracial unions and establish permanent white settlement As colonists sponsored women often supported or even helped perpetrate extreme patterns of racist violence and vigilantism in Namibia which linked them inextricably to marked atrocities such as the Herero and Nama Genocides Navigating the intersections of German attitudes toward race class ethnicity gender and nation this revealing study traces the German settler community's gossip and rumors to uncover how the many poor white female settlers in Southwest Africa disrupted bourgeois race and gender relations and contributed to the trenchant sexual and racial violence in the territory Chilton's Jewelers' Circular/keystone , 1988-11
