Determining the correct spare part set

This method is used merely to determine whether the spare part set is suitable for the measuring device. Other conclusions drawn from the table are not applicable.

1. Read the order code from the nameplate on the measuring device and enter it in the empty fields below.

2. Select the order number of the spare part set in the table below.

3. Check the fields after the order number selected against the highlighted items in the order code.

4. If each field after the selected order number contains a digit or letter from the order code, the spare part set can be used for the measuring device (* = no restriction).

Note! The number of the spare part set can differ from the material number of the spare part it contains!

The order number of the relevant spare part set can be established by entering the material number of the spare part in the spare parts finder. We recommend that the installation instructions be kept with the packaging at all times.
