

Management Operations

Module 1 - The Management Story

The diagram above is a simplified representation of the management structure of a company. It shows the hierarchy of the organization, from the top level down to the bottom level. The top level is the Chief Executive Officer, who is responsible for the overall management of the company. Below the CEO are the President and Vice President, who are responsible for the day-to-day operations of the company. The President oversees the Marketing, Sales, and Finance departments, while the Vice President oversees the Operations and Human Resources departments. Each of these departments has its own set of sub-departments, which are shown in the diagram below the main departments.

- (a) Marketing's primary function is to create and maintain a strong relationship between the company and its customers. This is done through a variety of means, including advertising, public relations, and sales promotion. The Marketing department is responsible for all of these activities, and it works closely with the Sales department to ensure that the company's products are being sold to the right customers at the right price.
- (b) Sales is the department responsible for selling the company's products to its customers. This is done through a variety of means, including direct sales, indirect sales, and sales promotion. The Sales department is responsible for all of these activities, and it works closely with the Marketing department to ensure that the company's products are being sold to the right customers at the right price.
- (c) Finance is the department responsible for managing the company's financial resources. This includes accounting, budgeting, and financial reporting. The Finance department is responsible for ensuring that the company has enough money to cover its operating expenses, and it works closely with the other departments to ensure that the company's financial resources are being used efficiently.
- (d) Operations is the department responsible for producing and distributing the company's products. This includes production, distribution, and logistics. The Operations department is responsible for ensuring that the company's products are being produced and distributed in a timely and efficient manner, and it works closely with the other departments to ensure that the company's products are being sold to the right customers at the right price.
- (e) Human Resources is the department responsible for managing the company's human resources. This includes recruitment, training, and employee relations. The Human Resources department is responsible for ensuring that the company has enough qualified employees to carry out its operations, and it works closely with the other departments to ensure that the company's employees are being treated fairly and efficiently.
